VANCOUVER (CP) — Police Monday night charged Mrs. Rose Schneiderman, 59, with assaulting another woman by throwing lye in her face.

Mrs. Schneiderman will appear in police court today on assault charges.

Mrs. Jessie Allan of nearby Richmond was treated in hospital for face burns.

African Rioting Spreads

STANLEYVILLE, Belgian Congo (Reuters) — African unrest Monday was reported spreading outside this riot-torn town on the eve of a Belgian Parliamentary debate on the Congo's future.

Governor-General Henri Cornet broadcast an appeal for a return to law and order after two days of violent weekend rioting in which 70 Negroes were reported killed. He declared Belgian authorities will not hesitate to use police and military forces to stamp out violence in this eastern province.

A military-enforced quiet was evident in Stanleyville but strikes involving more than 800 native workers at four other centres near the city were reported by the Belgian News Agency.

Reason for the strikes was not known immediately. Observers here believe, however, they might have resulted from a call by African nationalists last week for a civil disobedience campaign. At the community of Yatomela workers' demands included a car for each man.

Other Africans were reported blocking a road running between Stanleyville and Opala, about 95 miles northeast, and looting cars.

Houses and plantations along this road were pillaged, the news agency reported.

Europe Suffers

Drought Benefits Canada

WASHINGTON (CP) — Northern Europe has been hit by a drought, opening greater overseas markets for Canadian and United States food products.

Collecting information from its overseas offices, the U.S. agriculture department Monday reported the drought has burned pastures and shrivelled root and forest crops in large parts of a region extending from Britain east into Russia and from the Alps north into Scandinavia.

The damage to grass and the late hay crops in north-western Europe appears to be more severe than in any drought year of this century, the department said. Many of the European pastures will have to be reseeded.

Grain crops generally escaped the damage, but meat and milk production apparently were badly hit.

Civil Defence Asks U.S. For Millions

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Top civil defence officials urged the federal government yesterday to assume a larger role in protecting against the dangers of an atomic war.

Leo A. Hoegh, director of the office of civil defence mobilization, said Congress will be asked for a $1,000,000 monthly appropriation to match state civil defence in future.

Hoegh said a standing operational program is being formulated and should be ready for dispersal to the states by January.

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Every taxicab in Israel was chartered to help get voters to the polls in a general election today that is expected to return Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion to power.

Observers agreed there would be no landslide despite the fact that the 73-year-old Ben-Gurion is the hero of Israel and the most powerful man in the country.

DR. ARNOLD TOYNBEE
... humane new order

Historian:

Cut Births —Or Starve

ROME (UPI) — British historian-philosopher Dr. Arnold Toynbee said Monday mankind must accept birth control or else "sooner or later famine will stalk abroad again" in an over-populated world.

His statement before the 10th convention of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization was made with diplomatic immunity. It is a crime to advocate birth control in Roman Catholic Italy.

Toynbee, author of the monumental "Study of History," said civilization has increased the life span of mankind and has cut down the inroads of death by famine, pestilence and war.

"We have started to impose on nature's heartless play a humane new order of our own," he said. "But when once man has begun to interfere with nature he cannot afford to stop half way."

"We cannot, with impunity, cut down the death rate and at the same time allow the birth rate to go on taking nature's course. We must consciously try to establish an equilibrium or sooner or later, famine will stalk abroad again."

"It would be a mistake to try to hurry the process," he said. "Pressure would be likely to defeat its own purpose."

No Paralysis

Man from Sooke Hit by Polio

Bertrand Ogden, 30, of West Coast Road near Sooke, was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital Sunday suffering from polio.

He was in satisfactory condition last night at hospital, where a spokesman said he was not paralyzed and use of an iron lung was not necessary.

Mr. Ogden was the 14th polio victim reported on Vancouver Island this year.

Two boys died of polio in British Columbia Monday, bringing the death toll from the disease in the province this year to 13.

A five-year-old boy from the Anahim Indian Reservation in the Alexis Creek district of the Carli 20 and an 11-year-old Mission City boy were the latest victims.

Neither were identified. The boy from the Anahim reservation received one shot of Salk anti-polio vaccine.

Three other new cases were also reported, bringing the year's total to 79.

Two 37-year-old men, one from Kamloops, the other Quesnel, were both in hospital with bulbar polio. A 32-year-old Bella Coola woman also contracted the disease.

Court Convicts Vice-Principal

EDMONTON (CP) — Michael Kondratuk, former vice-principal of Parkview School in Morinville, Alta., Monday was sentenced to two years after being convicted in Supreme Court on charges of possession of safecracking tools and explosives.

A third charge of break and entry was dismissed because of lack of evidence. It was laid in connection with the breaking and entering of the Credit and Savings building in Morinville, a town 20 miles north of Edmonton, Aug. 6.

Kondratuk worked in Edmonton during the summer as a taxi driver. He was vice-principal of the Morinville school until last June 9.

City police said they discovered fuse, nitric acid, glycerine, detonating caps, an eye dropper and a glass cutter in Kondratuk's car Aug. 7 when they went to summons him for speeding.

What are we employing in this country by way of school teachers?" asked Mr. Justice J. M. Cairns as he sentenced Kondratuk.

Defence counsel Ed Sulley said his client has received psychiatric treatment since the charges were laid.

Confesses in Shame Big Show Rigged

NEW YORK (AP) — Charles Van Doren apparently managed to spend most of his $50,000 in TV winnings in three years while earning $50,000 a year as a TV consultant and working as a professor.

"I owe more than I have left," Van Doren told reporters in Washington Monday after he told a Congressional committee his famous performance on the Twenty-One quiz show was all a fake.

When Van Doren went on the show late in 1956, he was a $4,200-a-year instructor at Columbia University.

FILED UP $129,000

When he left the show, he had piled up $129,000 in winnings for answering questions he now says were mostly from a memorized script.

Because he married shortly after he collected his winnings in 1957, and was able to file a joint tax return, Van Doren was able to keep from $50,000 to $55,000 of the $129,000. The marriage saved him about $20,000 in income taxes.

Later, Van Doren, still doing his teaching job at Columbia, was hired by the National Broadcasting Company as an educational consultant at $50,000 a year.

SUBSTANTIAL RAISE

Still later he was made an assistant professor at Columbia with a substantial raise in pay.

Van Doren hasn't said where the money went but he bought the old family home in Greenwich Village and bought at least two new cars, including an expensive sports car. He also lived in a swank Manhattan apartment for a time.

The fallen idol of the TV quiz shows confessed in shame and anguish Monday that he was deeply involved in rigging the defunct, scandal-tinged Twenty-One quiz show.

RESIGNS

In a matter of hours, Columbia University accepted Van Doren's resignation as an assistant professor of English, effective immediately.

Van Doren also faces possible perjury charges in court, for admitted misstatements to a New York grand jury investigating the rigging of TV shows, and perhaps an end to his $50,000-a-year television career.

For three years the 33-year-old English instructor had concealed, in fear and folly, he said, that the $129,000 he won on Twenty-One were dishonest dollars.

UNDER INDICTMENT

The man who coached him, he told a House of Representatives commerce subcommittee, was Albert Freedman, the producer of the show. Freedman already is under indictment on charges of lying when he denied to a grand jury that the program was fixed.

In New York, the National Broadcasting Company said it was withholding comment on Van Doren's testimony for the present. Freedman could not be located for his reaction.

At one time, Van Doren testified under questioning Freedman told him, "Charlie, I think I ought to have $5,000 of that money."

NOT THAT WAY

Van Doren said he was sorry he ever mentioned that—not that he was trying still to hide something but "I don't think Mr. Freedman meant that the way it sounds."

The matter never was brought up again, he said, and no arrangement was made between him and Freedman.

Van Doren's 90-minute session was every bit as tense and dramatic as any of his 14 appearances in the NBC isolation booth in late 1956 and early 1957.

500 SPECTATORS

Instead of millions of television viewers—the House allows no televising of hearings—perhaps 500 spectators packed elbow to elbow into the House caucus room.

Among them were Van Doren's wife and his father, Mark, the poet.

Also there was Herbert Stempel, a contestant Van Doren dethroned on the quiz program. It was Stempel

BOSTON (AP) — A high police official Monday put the East Boston police station under investigation after federal treasury agents crushed what they called a multi-million-dollar gambling ring allegedly operating in the shadow of that station.

TORONTO (CP) — The University of Toronto will make a concerted attempt to bring back Canadian scholars who occupy senior posts in the United States, President Claude T. Bissell says.

FIRST REPORT

In his first report to the university's senate and board of governors, released Monday, Dr. Bissell said appointment and retention of good staff members is the most important way of maintaining the university as an intellectual community in the face of expanding enrolment.

He said the university has already had some success in attracting scholars from the U.S., "and we intend to pursue the policy with vigor."

REMAIN ON PAR

"To be able to do this we must make sure our salaries remain on a par with the salaries paid in the senior American universities — such universities as Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Chicago and California—for it is with these universities that our competition lies."

He said that Metropolitan Toronto is the "real crisis point" in Canada's expanding university enrolment.

Bells Toll Traffic Fatalities

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary yesterday launched a high-pressure traffic safety campaign which it hopes will include such features as church bells ringing every half-hour on days when there has been a fatal traffic accident.

The campaign started with a drive on jaywalkers. The first person ticketed was City Commissioner E. C. Thomas, caught walking across the middle of a block near City Hall.

To back up its get-tough policy 10 new constables will be added to its traffic squads.

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

I ran across a marvelous old Jewish story. Once upon a time there were two Jews in the little Apstro-Hungarian town of Gross-Meserich. One was Samek, the rich mill owner, the other was Mendel Mandel, the schnorrer. (A schnorrer makes his living by going begging from door to door.)

Samek had a daughter who went to finishing school in Vienna. Mendel had a son who studied law at Vienna University. The two young people met, fell in love, and announced to their respective fathers that they were engaged.

Mendel Mandel went to Samek's office to ask, on behalf of his son, for the hand of Samek's daughter. Samek, enraged, threw him out. Mendel Mandel swore to have his revenge.

Pined Away

Samek fetched his daughter home to Gross-Meserich. There she pined away for young Mendel and lost weight at an alarming rate. When she was down to 112 pounds, Samek went to Mendel and said he agreed to the match.

Mendel Mandel said, "I have one condition—My condition is that you go out schnorring for one whole day, as I have had to do for 40 years, from eight in the morning till six in the evening."

Samek said no, but two weeks later, when his daughter was down to 98 pounds, he accepted.

And so, one memorable day, the great, rich Samek went on his round as a schnorrer. Mendel Mandel went along to see that he didn't skip a single house.

In each house Samek, the richest man in town, was received with great courtesy and respect. Then he told his tale, as he had promised to Mendel Mandel. He was utterly broke, he said, he had lost all his money, he and his wife and daughter hadn't a crust of bread in the house. "Please give me a few pennies, God will reward you."

Pent-Up Hate

At that, the people turned on him. All their pent-up hatred came out. They told him what they thought of him, how they despised him and his stuck-up wife and daughter and they went back over his misdeeds for 10, 20 years. They abused him unmercifully.

Still and all, he collected some money—even a little more than Mendel Mandel, the pro usually got on his rounds.

The day went on. They had done the town of Gross-Meserich, and the next village, and the next. Finally at half-past five in the evening, they wearily climbed a hill and then looked down on Golch-Yenikow, the last village on their list.

At this point, Mendel Mandel stopped, held out his hand and said, "Let's call it a day. Let's go home and our children will get married and be happy."

Samek took Mendel's hand and shook it. Then he pulled out his watch, looked at it and said, "We still have time to do Golch-Yenikow. How about it?"

Plane Dumps Fuel

Fowl Fouls Flight Out of Vancouver

VANCOUVER (GP)—Officials began looking again yesterday for a way to get rid of the birds that plague Vancouver International Airport.

A pheasant held up 73 east-bound passengers for eight hours Sunday after flying into the engine of a Canadian Pacific Airlines Britannia aircraft as it took off, smashing in a cowling and plugging the plane's air compressor.

The pilot switched off the affected engine, flew out over Georgia Strait and dumped

3,000 gallons of kerosene fuel, then made a safe landing. The plane spent the rest of the day in a hangar having its engine flushed out.

"Birds are a problem here," sighed airport manager Bill Inglis.

Other airports have resorted to trained falcons, high-frequency sounds to startle birds into flight and even recorded cries of gulls in agony.

"But the effect of all these tricks wears off," Inglis said. "Nobody's come up with an effective solution yet."

Shirt-Shopper Sent to Oakalla

John Elvin Wallace, no fixed address, was sent to Oakalla for one year yesterday, when he pleaded guilty in city police court to theft of two shirts valued at $27.90.

Det. Norman Bath told Magistrate A. I. Thomas that the shirts had been stolen from Eaton's department store, and that Wallace had been stopped with the shirts on the street.

A record of prior convictions was also read to the court.

A man who pleaded guilty last week and was remanded for sentence on a charge of beating an infant changed his plea in city court yesterday.

Melvin Garry Bagge, Work Point, was represented yesterday by counsel, who asked and obtained leave to change the original plea to one of not guilty.

Bagge was remanded to Nov. 16 to set date for trial, and bail was set at $500.

Huge Tropical Turtle Stranger in the Strait

About 1,500 pounds of soup on the hoof is wandering around in the waters off Trial Island.

It's in the form of a leather-back turtle eight feet long, five feet wide, and 2,000 miles off course.

This specimen of the world's largest marine turtle was sighted Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Hart and Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Pinfold, King George Terrace. Normally native to tropical and sub-tropical waters, the leatherbacks have never been sighted so close to Victoria before.

At first Mr. Hart thought the turtle was sick, since it was just drifting aimlessly with the tide. But apparently, 2,000 miles from home, it was merely considering the wisdom of making that left turn at San Francisco. When the foursome tried to get their boat closer to it, the turtle went under water, reappeared about 1,000 feet away, and finally disappeared in the rip tide.

Museum authorities have asked fishermen and hunters not to shoot the rare specimen if it is sighted again. Instead, try pointing it south. It's got a long way to go, and you know how turtles are, anyway.

Do you kiss your wife in public?

I don't.

I just can't.

The way I feel—public kissing is for the movies, or weddings, or when you're going away on a long trip.

I do kiss my son when I leave for work. But he is only four—and when he is fourteen we'll be shaking hands.

But don't get the idea I don't love them—just because I don't make a big scene about it.

I've got $60,000 worth of Metropolitan Life Insurance. Think about that.

That will pay the mortgage, and all our bills. It will give my wife and son $300 a month until he's grown up.

You buy Life insurance only because you love somebody. I see where the average insured Canadian family owns $11,000 worth.

Is $60,000 how much I love my wife and son?

No.

As soon as I can afford more, I'll call my Metropolitan Man.

"Only because you love somebody" . . . that's the best reason of all to call your Metropolitan Man. He can chart, and leave with you, a family security program. It will take into account not only your Old Age Pension, savings and other assets. It will take your special responsibilities into consideration, too—your own family's particular protection needs. He can help you plan to meet those needs in a way that makes good sense for you. Call your Metropolitan Man today.

Sweeps Winner Fetes Skid Road Pals

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—George Brown, a 77-year-old pensioner who won $140,000 last week in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes, came out of hiding Monday feeling just a little bit sorry for himself.

George disappeared on a celebration bender with his old Skid Road pals when he learned of his big win last Wednesday.

"And I'm paying for it now," muttered the former logger, holding his head and looking at the piles of empty beer and gin bottles stacked in the kitchen of a friend's room in the building where he lives.

"I've had my fun and I've got to sober up," he said. "It's too much. $140,000. What's an old man like me going to do with all that?"

"I'd have been much happier with only about $12,000."

"You know, I've already gone through a couple of hundred. I got an advance on my ticket from a friend."

George shakily lit a crumpled cigarette and removed his hat to stroke his bald head.

"The money's not going to make any difference to me. I have lived alone and kept to myself all my life. I'm too old to change now."

"What do I want to move from here for?" he asked, referring to the room with the outdoor toilet he rents for $12 a month in a dingy rooming-house. "I'm quite happy."

The tall, stooping Scotsman said he'll probably put about $50,000 of the money in the bank and "give the rest away to friends who've helped me when things have been tough."

George started his giveaway program Saturday by taking his old friend Vic Fairfield to get fitted for a new suit.

"We went to the best tailor in town," beamed Vic. "George said to me, 'Get anything you want.'"

The two elderly men were fitted with $155 suits. Then they went back to skid road to continue the celebration.

"George was buying drinks for everyone," said Vic. "We toured all the old places and sat right in the middle of the rooms so his friends would see us when they came in."

George has already been swamped with mail from banks, investment houses, and people asking for money.

One letter was from a 63-year-old Kelowna woman who said she owns her own home and if he's interested she'll send her photograph.

"I'm not interested in any women," said George. "I've never been married because I've never been in love, and I'm too old to start now."

Cars Can't Stand Pace

U.K. in Freeway Frenzy

LONDON (UPI)—England opened its first "superhighway" yesterday—a road described by cynics as the first decent one built here since the Romans—and the accidents came as fast as the cinders.

Within the first few hours of its opening, the 72-mile six-lane, no-speed-limit highway between London and Birmingham was littered with overheated, over-worked cars, over-driven by over-enthusiastic motorists. One car's engine fell out.

Some of the earliest travelers zoomed jubilantly over the highway at speeds of well over 100 miles an hour. Minister of Transport Ernest Marples, who did the opening honors, said: "I've never seen anybody going so fast in my life!"

As the calls piled up from broken down cars that couldn't stand the pace, it ap-

Psychological Deaths? Worried Kiernan Asks

Alarm at the number of fatal accidents in the mining industry so far this year, was expressed yesterday by Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan.

He said there have been 16 deaths compared with four last year. The total is three above the 10-year average for a complete year with two months still to go.

Mr. Kiernan said no pattern for the accidents could be found except thoughtlessness.

He pointed to the record number of traffic fatalities this year and offered a suggestion that some psychological force must be working on people—and making them go out and get killed.

whose charges led to evidence that the show was fixed.

Wednesday's unvarnished drama showed that all those apparent mental pangs Van Doren went through in downing Stempel and a string of other competitors were faked.

KNEW AHEAD

Van Doren said he knew ahead of time what he was going to be asked. He was coached on the answers and how to deliver them for maximum entertainment impact, he said, and even was given scripts to memorize in advance.

"I was involved, deeply involved, in a deception," he testified, adding that "I would give almost anything I have to reverse the course of my life in the last three years."

When he had concluded, with a "God bless you" from chairman Oren Harris, Van Doren told reporters in slow, measured words: "I feel better than I have felt in three years."

While there was a burst of applause when Harris dismissed Van Doren with a "God bless you," there was applause, too, when Republican Representative Steven B.

Derounian of New York declined to go along with complaints that other committee members showered on the witness for telling the truth.

"I don't think an adult of your intelligence should be commended for telling the truth," Derounian declared in severe tones.

Van Doren winced, flushed, and ducked his head.

Van Doren said Freedman stressed that he would be doing a great service to the intellectual life, teachers and education in general by appearing on the program.

Foolishly and wrongly, Van Doren said, he persuaded himself to believe Freedman even though he was "sick at heart" from an intense moral struggle inside himself.

The Protest Grows

A STRONG body of opinion which the provincial government may find it hard to disregard is building up in British Columbia in favor of an independent examination of the province's education cost-sharing formula. The necessity for such an investigation is a matter which the Colonist has been urging upon the B.C. government for more than a year.

The B.C. School Trustees' Association at its recent convention passed a resolution asking for the appointment of a royal commission to seek methods of achieving a "stable and equitable basis of sharing education costs." At the weekend the B.C. Social Credit League in convention in Vancouver added its voice to the plea, in a resolution asking for a royal commission to study education cost with a view to finding where school revenue could be derived other than from taxes on property.

The resolutions are two ways of saying much the same thing, since the crux of dissatisfaction is the disproportionate burden imposed on property ownership for what is not in reality a service to property. Rather, it is a service to Canada, to the province and to the community in that descending order of importance.

A third organization, the Union of B.C. Municipalities, has been protesting the inequities of the school cost distribution for longer than either of the other two, and has propounded an alternative known as the Murison formula which has gained wide support.

The provincial government, through Premier Bennett and others, has stated that the Murison formula is not acceptable and might aggravate the problems of education finance. On the other hand the modified Cameron formula on which the province operates certainly is no longer acceptable to the municipalities, the trustees or the taxpayers, as evidenced by the mounting wave of complaint. Now it is shown that the system is not satisfactory to the government's own party either, so obviously it is time for something better to be produced.

The best approach to this problem would be by way of independent examination. The government appointed a royal commission to study the much-criticized curriculum; it should round out its investigation by setting up another to examine the equally important aspect of finance.

Rest Rooms by Compulsion

ONE of the problems of urban centres is that of rest rooms for public use. A stranger in a big city or even in the country is often at a loss when searching for what elsewhere are known as public conveniences. The answer does not lie wholly in civic sponsored edifices of this nature either, for these do not have the atmosphere which invites universal use.

The Social Credit convention sought to provide a solution by passing a resolution seeking government legislation to compel the installation of rest rooms in coffee shops and restaurants. Why these businesses were singled out is not clear. Mr. Elmer McEwan for instance, himself a restaurateur, asked why not in butchers' shops and chain groceries too? Except that the propriety would not be felicitous, he made a point. It can scarcely be the business of government to compel all and sundry to provide washroom facilities.

Most restaurants of any size do have rooms of this nature. So do gasoline service stations and large department stores. It would obviously be impractical for all coffee shops, however, to add such a convenience. Some of them are mere holes in the wall almost, and are designed for a quick snack; they do not pretend to offer the comforts of home, nor should this be obligatory.

Community laws of health may require certain provisions in this respect, in places where the public foregathers and the necessity is deemed urgent. In the normal role it cannot be expected that every business should install rest rooms, and if not all the compulsion of a few would be discriminatory. One imagines this is one resolution the government will put in a pigeonhole; it has enough troubles without attempting to dictate to coffee stalls and restaurants on the matter of public conveniences.

Ten-Year Delay

THE city council may be right or wrong in the contention that the school board owes the city some settlement in connection with the taking over and use of former city lands as school property. Since the origination of the initial claim, however, 10 years have elapsed. In that period the city appears to have granted building permits, electrical permits and so forth for the buildings which the school board erected on the lands in question; so that it can hardly be argued that the city did not know what was taking place.

Since the original dispute arose the city has reconstituted its legal advisory and other services in such a fashion that it would be difficult to imagine an analogous situation arising in the future. It is another matter if the city can go back that length of time to change what it appears to have assented to, even under protest, at the time. Titles have passed and have been registered. Protected buildings have been built and occupied. All that would appear to remain is an accounting. Why has the city waited until now to draw a deadline in connection with that?

This is not to argue that Victoria has no claim. If what some aldermen have asserted be correct, it probably has. But surely ultimatums are not the way to assert whatever may be the respective rights in the matter. The present city council cannot be blamed for the origination of the tangle some years ago; but it should be careful now to prevent the knots being drawn tighter. If the school board is indebted to the city over the period it can be held accountable for that, without heat or recrimination.

Interpreting the News

India, Pakistan Closer

By DAVID ROWNTREE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

COMMUNIST China is following a lonely road. Its border incursions against India are having one important effect: Pakistan and India are being brought closer together.

For some months Prime Minister Nehru and President Ayub Khan, Pakistan's strong man, have been working to settle their differences peacefully. Recently they pledged once again to negotiate border disputes and refer to impartial tribunals those they can't resolve.

Perhaps even the problem of Kashmir, which both republics claim, may yet be settled without more blood being spilled.

That both countries are threatened by Peking's recent warlike moves was evident last week when the Communists clashed with an Indian patrol, killing nine border policemen and capturing 10 in the Kashmir.

Ayub Khan said recently an invasion of the subcontinent some day is not a hypothetical question. In such a case, he said, Pakistan would be bound to go to India's help and for that reason the issue of Kashmir, predominantly Moslem as is Pakistan but now annexed to India, should be settled quickly.

Within India, Nehru has come under increasing criticism for his kid-glove handling of the dispute with China.

Demands in the press that India should meet force with force were followed by shouted demands from Socialists that he resign.

The fighting along the India-China border and the suppression of the revolt in Tibet last spring has led to disenchantment with China elsewhere in Southeast Asia.

Delegates to the Colombo Plan meeting now going on in Indonesia seem to be nearly unanimous in condemning Chinese actions. Four years ago, at the Bandung conference, the newly independent nations of the area looked with admiration at China.

However, when the United Nations general assembly took a vote recently that in effect censured China for the Tibetan affair, only Malaysia—one of the co-sponsors—Pakistan, Laos and Thailand were brave enough to agree to the resolution.

Russia's role in all this is the subject of much debate. Peking's ambition to "liberate" Formosa and its actions in Tibet and along the Indian frontier—a poorly defined one where one country's territorial claims overlap the other's—have all been defended by the Kremlin as internal matters.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

YOU should see the pyramids in moonlight, said a friend long ago after I had seen them in daylight and come away unimpressed. The sun dissipated their magic.

The moon as you know has had a fresh lease of life lately, although not quite so rhapsodical as formerly. Its reality is taking the poetry out of it. Poetry thrives best on intangibles, as even a bare scrutiny of the masters indicates.

Now, a lunik having peered where man only guessed before, the mystic gloss has passed. They are even talking of switching interest to Venus, not a bad idea considering the implications of this name.

The moon of course is a matter of mood; one's own mood. That is where poetry falls short. Bruce Bairnsfather drew the other day and a famous cartoon of his indicated the moon's double nature. There was no need, really, to photograph its other side.

This wartime cartoon showed a love-sick maid looking out the window at the moon; the very same moon, she breathed, as blessed her front-line swain. For his part he was crawling in No-Man's-Land wishing to heck it would disappear.

There has always been a contradiction, in literature. The man in the moon has been known to us for centuries, but poets prefer the ecstasy of "she." One can hardly blame them, and it would also be a poet, I suppose, who first made a ship a she.

Says one master of the muse: "O sovereign mistress of true melancholy." Says another: "Late yestreen I saw the new moon, wif the auld moon in her arm."

Perhaps, you know, moon-face only looked like a man because she hadn't been to a beauty parlor.

It's not fair, I know, but they give feminine flames to hurricanes. So it is with poets and the moon. (Why is it, by the way, that all the great lyrics are masculine?)

Anyway, it's not surprising they should visit upon the moon the contrariness of midday. "O! swear not by the moon, the inconstant moon," a man-made Juliet cry, which wasn't very sporting of him.

Another celebrated pen affirmed that "the devil's in the moon for mischief" and that those who called her chaste spoke too soon. There isn't a day that sees half the wickedness on which three hours of moonshine smiles, said he. But perhaps he was thinking of Halloween.

"How sweet the moonlight sleeps upon this bank." No longer. We are afraid of it. The poet of old poured out his soul as he gazed upwards drinking in the mystery of this phenomenon of night life; now she looms overhead as a potential menace.

It would be better that they switch to Venus. She is farther off, more difficult to catch as befits her name, and her wiles thus in the distance.

"You gazed at the moon and fell in a gutter," says the proverb. Perhaps that's what man did when her fascination induced him to send her a visiting card. Methinks it would have been better to leave her to the rhapsody of poetry. We are getting too close for comfort.

Reports from Ottawa

FROM the heyday of Willie K's Liberalism to these salad days of John D's Conservatism, the thing about Ottawa politicians that has fascinated me most is: Why?

Take the case of Douglas Fisher, the CCF MP from the Lakehead whose intention to retire from politics at the end of the current Parliament I reported in this space last spring. In a little over two years in Parliament this youngish MP has made himself what is trivially called a controversial figure.

Aside from knocking the Tories and slighting the Grifs, as any good Socialist should do, he described Ottawa news correspondents as a collection of mediocrities, he denounced the CCF's long-sought alliance with labor as a party suicide, and he referred—spoofingly, as he later explained—to Parliament as a collection of phonies.

Fisher entered the Commons as a CCF hero, the man who had knocked off C. D. Howe. Perhaps he naively believed great things were in store for him here, not realizing that any backbencher—of no matter, what party—who comes to Parliament taking himself too seriously is courting frustration and a bruised spirit. A man's success in Parliament depends largely on his ability to work as a member of a team. A maverick can achieve little unless he gets to be leader of the team, like John Diefenbaker.

But withal, I should hate to see Fisher quit the Commons. Behind his angry outbursts, behind his frustration and wounded ego, behind his intolerance of a system weighted against change, there is an intelligent mind with a good grasp of some of the nation's economic and human problems. There is an eagerness to work. And there is, I think, intellectual honesty and sincerity. These qualities outweigh the boos of his political immaturity.

The Packsack

Wheeled Invaders

By GREGORY CLARK

IN Britain the wagons in which gypsies travelled and lived, gaily painted and ornate vehicles drawn by horses, were called caravans.

Even before the motor car age, adventurous Britons other than gypsies had begun the fashion of taking their holidays travelling in the more picturesque regions of the British Isles in caravans modelled on the gypsy style. When the motor trailer was introduced, it was called a caravan; and that is the Old Country name for it today.

It is estimated by the British government that more than 80,000 caravans are now in use as residences; and that between two and three million caravans are in use as summer holiday vehicles.

And the government is faced with a mounting problem in regard to framing regulations to control what we would call the parking of caravans; but what in Britain is termed the "siting" of them.

I believe that Fisher, like many other MPs, entered public life for an essentially altruistic purpose: to make a contribution to the running of the country. Certainly it wasn't for money. Fisher nets less than he did as a teacher.

But the desire to perform public service even at a financial sacrifice is, fortunately, not uncommon among MPs even though, in the case of Conservatives and Liberals, there is a real chance of eventual tangible reward; a cabinet ministership, a senatorship, a judgeship.

Mackenzie King used to speak of the satisfaction of service, and for most men in public life that is their greatest reward. But with King—and for that matter, any prime minister—there was also the satisfaction of personal power. It was King's life; with it gone he withered and died. It is Diefenbaker's life; the goal to which he aspired for more than 20 years.

It was not Louis St. Laurent's life, and perhaps that had something to do with the fact that in the end he failed as a politician. He had different standards, a code of conduct which was his nature by the time he entered Parliament at age 59; without personal ambition, drafted for a wartime duty. As prime minister he trusted people overly much; he delegated authority more freely than events proved wise and he was less than ruthless to those who opposed him.

Diefenbaker trusts few—for example, only three or four of his cabinet ministers—and has his whole fist in just about every important pie. There is currently a concentration of effective authority, of decision, in one man that Ottawa has not seen since Mackenzie King. I am not convinced that this is either intrinsically good or intrinsically bad. I think it depends on the man and on the circumstances. But it does place a premium on the services of able opposition MPs as watchdogs over the public interest.

Stick around, Doug Fisher. You're not wasting your time.

There's Mud In TV's Eye

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WHILE it has been good for sensational headlines, the U.S. Congressional investigation into the rigged quiz shows gets at only one of the minor symptoms of the deep broadcasting industry. That is why many observers are saying that the inquiry will inevitably be widened in an attempt to get at the root of the evils of pull and power and the control exercised by the merchandisers and the advertisers over what the American public is to see and hear.

Theoretically, the industry is regulated by the Federal Communications Commission. But, as with other regulatory commissions that make up so sizeable a segment of the federal government, politics becomes entwined with authority and the lure of big money results in pressures that are irresistible.

A focal point for an expanded inquiry could well be the commission and its relation to broadcasting. Seven men, each appointed for a term of seven years and paid $20,000 a year, are delegated to police an industry charged with the public interest and involving vast sums of money. A complex of one television and two radio stations in Philadelphia was sold recently for $20,000,000.

Four of the present commissioners are civil servants who came up the communications commission ladder. Three are political appointees, one of them, Robert E. Lee, was under the patronage of the late Senator Joseph McCarthy when McCarthy was riding high. Lee's term expires next year.

The commission has no authority over the networks but only over local stations. Yet it is a few network executives along with a few advertising account men speaking for the sponsors who determine what a hundred million Americans, more or less, will see every night in their homes.

The professional critics have been saying for a long time that the level gets lower year after year, with more and more of the valuable time given over to crime, violence and sensation. As FCC chairman John C. Dorefer made clear when he was questioned about the rampant fraud in the quiz shows, the commission draws hastily back at any suggestion of censorship.

Certainly, censorship by a government agency would be highly undesirable. But under present circumstances there are no restraints of any kind, and the lowest common denominator of the mass audience is the end result.

A serious inquiry into the relationship between government and broadcasting would not concern itself with the peccadilloes of the commissioners. To ferret out small special favors—tips really—is irrelevant to the central problem. That is the failure of regulation for a wide variety of reasons, one of them being the cumbersome, bureaucratic approach of the commission which has been overwhelmed by an industry that has grown fantastically since the Federal Communications Act of 1934.

Such an inquiry would have to be conducted with skill and patience. It would be comparable to the analytical dissection of an ailing business performed by a team of efficiency managers. The refusal to delegate authority, the long debates within the commission, the confusion of legislative, judicial and regulatory functions all within one agency would be brought to light.

But who would be interested in conducting such an investigation? The rewards would be not in headlines but in a final report that could result in truly remedial legislation.

Too many members of Congress, some directly and some indirectly, are tied into the broadcasting business. At least 30 members of the Senate and House have a direct ownership interest in TV and radio stations. Senator Warren Magnuson, chairman of the Senate commerce committee, owns slightly more than four per cent of a Seattle TV station. Chairman Oren Harris of the House commerce committee last year sold one-fourth interest in a station in his home town of El Dorado, Arkansas, because he said he was tired of the implication that this would color his judgment.

Senator Robert Kerr of Oklahoma has extensive TV interests. Representative Alvin M. Bentley owns a third interest in a Saginaw, Michigan, station. The law connections of many members of Congress lead back into the broadcasting industry, and it is standard practice for those seeking a new channel or approval of a station sale to enlist congressional pressure to be applied on the FCC.

All this being the case, the powers in the broadcasting industry may feel they can ride out the storm. Young Charles Van Doren journeyed to Washington for a Roman holiday before the TV cameras. And how could one find a better victim, a better diversion, than this young intellectual who seemed so sure of his knowledge?

But it is possible that this time the public itself is fed up and it will not be enough to stop for a time some of the worst wrongs, counting on the short memory of a gullible public.

Letters to the Editor

Call It Courage

It fairly makes me rebel to hear people say it took courage for Mr. Fleming to say "No" to civil servants' salary increases. To me it's like having a man's servants' tied, and slapping him in the face. We no doubt have people who would call that courage, too.

I read in today's paper (Nov. 1) that 1,400 plumbers in Vancouver asked for wage increases; and will receive 12 cents commencing Nov. 1 and a further 12 cents an hour, on April 1 next year. This will give them $3.14 an hour. I wonder what happened to the courageous man or men who employ plumbers?

Seems odd, does it not, that 1,400 plumbers (I take plumbers only as an example of most Canadian workers) can come to a settlement with their employers, and 180,000 civil servants cannot. Until civil servants have the right to bargain there will always be a class distinction between civil servants and other Canadian workers.

I say shame on any employer who does not practise what he preaches; and courage, to me, is a postal worker taking home his pay after two years service, to his wife and five children, amounting to $32.81 per week. How does a so-called good employer expect a man and his family to live a decent life on that? His first year's pay was even worse.

So before any more talk of courage, take a good look and find out who really has the courage.

B. COEY.

The Colonist of Oct. 27 and 28 carried the news of the impending fate of 150 Hungarian boys and girls who, because of the part they took in the 1956 revolt, are facing execution as soon as they reach the age of 18 years.

May I suggest to your readers that they join in the protest which has been called for in America by writing some such letter as the following:

"Mr. Krushchev,
Politburo,

We, free and peace-loving people of Canada, appeal to your human feelings on behalf of 150 Hungarian boys and girls who are waiting execution. They should not be held responsible now for what they did in 1956 when they were only children."

Revise Mid-day Closing
Jaycees Urge Cabinet

The British Columbia and Yukon Junior Chamber of Commerce yesterday asked the provincial cabinet to revise the present noon hour closing time in provincial government offices, wherever feasible, to allow for further extension of public services.

Present ruling is that government offices must be closed between 12 noon and 1.10 p.m. for the lunch hour.

The Jaycees claimed in a brief presented to cabinet yesterday that the blanket hour closure denies the average working man the opportunity to avail himself of government services such as birth, death and marriage registrations, issuance of licences and other services.

It claimed it is often necessary for a worker to lose time, valuable both to himself and his employer, to avail himself of government services.

The present closing hours of provincial government offices in many instances could be changed to provide a noon hour service without additional staff or costs, the Jaycees claimed.

The present administration threw out the staggered lunch hour system because it was thought greater efficiency could be obtained by having a full staff on at all times.

The Jaycees also asked the government to make additional funds available to assist in the treatment of alcoholism.

The brief pointed out that some 21,640 alcoholics cause some $84,193,610 social damage in B.C. including $50,000,000 in lost earnings, $3,000,000 in hospitalization, $3,375,000 in traffic fatalities, $18,270,000 in traffic injuries, $6,000,000 in traffic accident property damage, $1,240,610 for jail services, $1,788,000 for social services, and $500,000 for mental hospitals.

The brief pointed out that last year the provincial government allocated $75,000 for the treatment of alcoholism, which compares to $125,000 furnished by Alberta for much fewer cases.

And when the march was finally completed, the exhausted survivors were forced into the open to do exercises.

"The insidious, diabolical belief (Communism) that brought this on cannot be stopped with nuclear weapons," Commissioner Lord concluded. "It can only be stopped with ideas."

"The idea with which to stop it is the idea of Christian faith."

Sect Gives Up Cars

KRESTOVA, (CP) — A spokesman for a Doukhobor sect in the East Kootenay area of British Columbia indicated Sunday members will be handing in their drivers' licences as proof of "staying off the road and avoiding violence."

Five members of the Spiritual Leaders for Christ sect turned their licences over to John Lebedoff, whom they have frequently described as their leader.

"The Doukhobor faith, being against sacrifice and violence, does not allow us to use the modern vehicles which result in hundreds of young lives sacrificed in violent highway deaths," said Mrs. Helen Demonsky, a spokesman for the group.

Lebedoff, summoned from his home at Wynndell, near Creston, to accept the licences, led a group of 16 to a meeting of the sect, hoping to gain support for the scheme.

"We don't want you here. Go away," a Freedomite screamed at Lebedoff from the door of the hall where the meeting was being held, a similar reception to last summer when he tried to resume his former leadership in the community.

Death March Survivor Says:

Only Christian Faith
Can Halt Communism

An American army officer shot because four of his men had dropped from exhaustion.

Thirty minutes of Christmas in a prison compound. Moments of sleep snatched in field furrows swept clean of snow.

And a trail of shallow graves for those who could not survive.

These and other almost unbelievable incidents of the infamous Yalu Death March were brought vividly to light last night by Commissioner Herbert Lord, international travelling commissioner of the Salvation Army, in a speech to a joint Rotary Club meeting.

Commissioner Lord, 70, was one of the survivors of the march, forced on 800 GIs and 70 civilians during the Korean war.

He told a story of a group, including a baby nine months old and several men and women in their 70s, marching through blizzards wearing only summer clothing. Those who stopped were shot.

And when the march was finally completed, the exhausted survivors were forced into the open to do exercises.

"The insidious, diabolical belief (Communism) that brought this on cannot be stopped with nuclear weapons," Commissioner Lord concluded. "It can only be stopped with ideas."

"The idea with which to stop it is the idea of Christian faith."

Nurse Injured by Car $7,977 Damages

A Victoria woman injured in a traffic accident Dec. 20, 1957, was awarded $7,977 damages in a B.C. Supreme Court decision handed down recently. Mrs. Constance Wilhelmina Olsen, 63, of 1127 Pandora, was severely injured when struck by a car driven by Louis P. Anderson, 38-year-old Victorian. The accident occurred at Cook and Pandora.

It was said that Anderson, following the accident, offered to take Mrs. Olsen into the nearby Medical Arts Building for assistance, but that she refused.

The judgment, handed down by Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane, awarded Mrs. Olsen $6,500 general damages, and $477 special damages. In addition, her husband, Ole Christian Olsen, 74, was awarded $1,000 damages, and Anderson was ordered to pay court costs.

Mr. Justice Macfarlane said that Mrs. Olsen had been a practical nurse under the Red Cross emergency service, and that since the accident she had not been able to earn any money, or even do all her housework.

Lost Pension Shows Up After All

A Victoria pensioner is grateful for help extended by fellow Victorians — and even more pleased that the help is not needed.

Last week Mrs. Isobel Fyvie, 1118 Quadra, reported the theft of her $55 old-age pension cheque.

After her loss was reported, a city musician donated $5 to her because he was "grateful for the nice things Victoria has done" for him.

Yesterday Mrs. Fyvie's cheque was given her by a neighbor who had picked it up with her own mail, and not noticed the mistake.

Mrs. Fyvie said that any money donated to her which cannot be returned will be turned over to the Community Chest.

Meanwhile, loss of still another pension cheque was reported to city police during the weekend. Mrs. Isabella Mackie, 104, 1060 Craigdarroch, said her mailbox had been pried open last Wednesday and her cheque for $55 stolen.

Swiss Climbing Deadly Sport

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI) — The 1959 Swiss mountain climbing season ended with a toll of 59 dead. That was the same climbing death toll as in the 1958 season.

the long and short of it...

Every man—and every woman—teeters on the brink of two great economic pitfalls: they may live too long, or, they may die too soon! Men and women who have outlived their savings may become dependent solely upon Old-Age Security. Most people don't want to be a burden to their children or have to rely on disguised charity.

Similar hardship is experienced by the family which loses, through disease or accident, a young husband and father who earned the income that paid the bills.

Through investing around 10% of net earned income (after taxes) in permanent personal policies of life insurance a man or woman can provide a guaranteed and reasonable income to themselves when old or to their families in event of untimely death.

One of the happy things about owning a Volkswagen is that wherever you go, efficient service is always close at hand. To serve you, as a Volkswagen owner, Volkswagen maintains a network of 280 authorized service-centres from the Atlantic to the Pacific... a dealer-service organization which is backed by a central 5-million dollar Spare Parts Depot.

A Factory-Training School at Toronto as well as Mobile Schools in the various provinces, ensure the consistently high standard for which Volkswagen mechanics have become known.

And when you think of it, isn't this the kind of service you would naturally expect from the company that was recently awarded the coveted Sperry Award "for advancing the art of transportation."

After all, it was Volkswagen that first mass-produced a car with the engine in the rear... air cooling... torsion bars front and rear for independent suspension.

This basic design has been maintained over the years and so has the superb workmanship... just two good reasons why Volkswagen enjoys such a high resale value.

'It's a Shame' Says Mayor

Tax Decision Favors Timber Firm

PORT ALBERNI — Mayor Loran Jordan Monday expressed disappointment in the Supreme Court of Canada's decision against Port Alberni in its appeal against a fixed school assessment levied against MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd.

"I thought the city had prepared a good case, and I think it a shame to subject the people of Port Alberni to this increased burden, which the city believes is not their right due," he said.

HAVEN'T POPULATION

"Somebody has got to make up the difference of the monies we can collect and the amount we will have to pay out under the fixed assessment agreement... the people of this city cannot make up that difference—we just haven't the population."

The Supreme Court of Canada ruled Monday that the city of Port Alberni, B.C., cannot boost the assessment for school tax purposes of MacMillan & Bloedel Alberni Limited to $32,094,494 from $800,000.

JUDGMENT UPHELD

The court upheld a judgment of the British Columbia appeal court which ruled that the company's assessment for the 1946-1965 period must be a fixed figure contained in an agreement signed by the city and the company in 1945. The B.C. Supreme Court had held earlier that the company was liable for assessment on the larger amount.

The city's appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada against the B.C. appeal court judgment was dismissed from the bench after the court had heard counsel for both parties. There will be no reasons for judgment.

AGREEMENT SIGNED

The city and the company in 1945 signed an agreement under which the company, formerly Bloedel, Stewart and Welch Limited, would build a pulp sulphite mill in Port Alberni. Lands and improvement of the company would be assessed for school purposes for the 1946-65 period at $100,000 for lands and $700,000 for improvements.

The agreement went into force after the city passed an empowering bylaw and the B.C. legislature approved an act ratifying the bylaw. This was necessary because the period of the fixed assessment was longer than that authorized under the B.C. Municipal Act and the bylaw had not been submitted to electors.

UP TO 1957

The city made assessments under the agreement for the years up to and including 1957. However, the company in 1958 was assessed at $351,540 for land and $31,742,954 for improvements.

Surviving are his widow, Eva, at Cedar; one daughter, Jacqueline Godsmark, Victoria, and three sons, Joseph and William in Ladysmith, and Ronald, Vancouver.

Indians, Chinese Battle In Duncan Chinatown

DUNCAN — A roughhouse fight between Indians and Chinese late Halloween night ended with one person being taken to hospital with concussion, another receiving a cheek gash and a third being locked up.

Fined after he pleaded guilty to a charge of common assault was Clyde Claxton, 20, of Saanichton, who said he was "just passing" at the time of the incident.

Jodoin Lends Support; Alberta Servants Out

OTTAWA (CP)—Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, says the move for a new left-of-centre Canadian political party has the unreserved support of the CLC.

He denied throwing "cold water" on the CLC tie-up with the new party.

"This interpretation is utterly false... The congress, and I as its president, believe that the need for a new party is greater today than it was even a year and a half ago... At the same time the congress, consisting of a large number of affiliated but autonomous organizations, must leave complete freedom of choice to each union on the question of affiliation."

Meanwhile, moves to make a complete break from the Alberta Federation of Labor are expected to highlight the 39th annual conference of the Civil Service Association of Alberta which opens in Calgary Thursday.

Sixteen civil service delegates walked out of the federation convention in Edmonton two weeks ago, ending a 31-year affiliation. The move followed a federation resolution to support the new national political party formed by the merger of organized labor with the CCF.

At Ottawa, the Canadian Labor Congress yesterday

President Jodoin of the 1,000,000-member labor body said, the need for collective bargaining has been underlined by the current rift between the government and its civil servants.

Key Man

Triple-Threat Coffey Break For Eskimos

Eagle Keys' hunch about talented Tommy-Joe Coffey is paying off when Edmonton Eskimos need it most.

Coffey was the only surprise name on Edmonton's list when Keys picked his final 12 imports of the season. He was out then with his second injury of the season but Keys said Coffey was his man because the youngster can play almost anywhere.

Now, Keys has a key place for Coffey, who can fill in at end, fullback and corner line-back. The place is substitute for Mike Lashuk, talented corner line-backer and sometime fullback who'll be the only Eskimo to miss tomorrow's last semi-final game against B.C. Lions at Edmonton.

As Esks piled up a 20-8 edge at Vancouver Saturday to open the two-game, total-point play-off, Lashuk suffered a concussion in the first half. He couldn't remember having played out the half and didn't come back from the dressing room.

ONLY INJURY

Lashuk was the only injury of the game for either team. Esks, favored to take the series by at least 21 points, went home Saturday and have practised each day since. They are viewing films of the Lions—but there's no film, talk or even mention of Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Best-of-three WIFU final opens in Winnipeg Nov. 11 with other games Nov. 14 and, if necessary, Nov. 18.

Ottawa Rough Riders, who host Montreal Saturday in the sudden-death Big Four semi-final, had the only serious injuries of league games last Saturday.

SWALLOWS TONGUE

Lineman Hardiman Cureton swallowed his tongue in a tackle on Cookie Gilchrist and was found unconscious at the bottom of the pile. Trainers' work was complicated by a wad of gum caught in Cureton's throat.

But they pried out Cureton's tongue so he could breathe again and the all-star tackle returned to the game later.

In addition, kicker Gary Schrieder came up with a severe charley horse, defensive half George Brancato suffered concussion, and John Jelacic also got a charley horse, and several other players suffered less serious injuries in the bruising game with Toronto.

Montreal Alouettes escaped everything but bruises in beating Hamilton 15-14. Tiger-Cats, open the two-game, total-point incognito, have chosen to Big Four final away from home Nov. 14. Second game is at Hamilton a week later.

Key Figure for Warriors

Talked out of retirement to play goal for Winnipeg Warriors, NHL veteran Al Rollins is a key figure in that team's plans for the season. Rollins and mates play Cougars here tomorrow night, starting time 8.30.

Speaking Briefly

Round Table Out to Pasture; International Officials Angry

Surprise retirement yesterday of Round Table, leading money-winning horse of all time, has upset plans for the $100,000 Washington, D.C., International at Laurel, Md., Nov. 11.

Winner of $1,749,869 with 43 wins in 66 starts, Round Table will go to stud now instead of after the International because he doesn't like an off track and owner Travis Kerr says he can't be sure of a fast track at Laurel.

Round Table was second to Sword Dancer by seven lengths in the Jockey Gold Cup Saturday.

Laurel officials were unhappy about the decision but decided to fill the place with Tudor Era, which won the International last year by 3½ lengths but was disqualified.

Semi-pro football experiment in Vancouver has ended with the B.C. Soccer Commission's decision to decertify the Pacific Coast League as a professional circuit.

The commission ordered a promotion-relegation setup between the PCL and the Mainland League. Bottom PCL club will enter the other league and top Mainland club will move into the PCL after each season.

SUSPENSIONS WILL be sought by racing officials for all jockeys at Toronto's New Woodbine track. Jockeys yesterday refused to ride the last three races because of "unsafe" conditions after four riders were hurt in spills in the first five races on the muddy track.

Ron Jackson, second-string Chicago White Sox first-baseman, has been traded to Boston Red Sox for southpaw Frank Baumann, 6-4 last season.

Detroit Lions suspended fullback John Henry Johnson indefinitely for missing the team plane back to Detroit after a 3-7 loss at San Francisco. Warrant has been issued for Johnson in Oakland, Calif., on complaint of his ex-wife, Barbara.

The Detroit star is $2,360 behind in his alimony. Jockeys Ruben Lopez, Roy Lunn and Eddie Burns were slightly hurt in a first-race spill at Bay Meadows track.

JOHNNY BRIGHT, Edmonton's crashing fullback, led WIFU ground gainers for the third straight year, with 1,340 yards net, 400 below his own record set last year. B.C.'s Willie Fleming had the best average gain, seven yards.

Cleveland of the American Hockey League signed Gilles Boisvert to replace goalie Gil Mayer, but with a broken jaw. Co-managers Don Neseth and Jackie McCoy of

Lack of Scoring Punch Hurt Cougars on Road

Offence or, more accurately, a lack of it, cost Victoria Cougars a double defeat over the weekend.

Back at his desk yesterday after returning with his club from games in Spokane and Seattle, manager-coach Hal Laycoe had no excuses for the 2-1 setback in Spokane Saturday or the 3-2 defeat which followed at Seattle Sunday.

"No offence," he said when asked what had happened to the unbeaten streak which had reached seven games following two successive losses to Vancouver, which started the season.

"We played poor hockey,"

Against Seattle, the Cougars managed only 14 shots on goal, had only two in the second period, yet were never out of contention.

"We played our best hockey in the first period, then they went ahead when (Marc) Boileau kicked in their first goal. We got that one back right away, then Felder came up with an almost fantastic goal and we died right there."

Felder, Laycoe said, actually got his stick behind a blazing blue-line drive by Gordie Sinclair and swept the puck past Marcel Pelletier in the air.

Totems took a 3-1 lead early in the third period as

Don Chiupka came up with what proved to be the winner. Jack Bionda cut the lead in two but there were only 48 seconds left to tie, not nearly enough for the Cougars on Sunday.

"We just couldn't get anything started," Laycoe explained. "Too many fellows were waiting for someone else to start something and nobody did. It's one of those things which happen to a club from time to time. It'll be different this week."

And it's an important week for the Cougars, who play four games in five days, starting Wednesday, against some of the toughest opposition in the much-tougher Western Hockey League.

WARRIORS VISIT

Tomorrow night, the Cougars take on the speedy Winnipeg Warriors at Memorial Arena ice and anyone who thinks this one might be easy with the standings showing only three wins and a tie in 10 games for the Manitobans hasn't been paying too much attention.

The last four Winnipeg defeats have all been by one goal and the Warriors indicated their mettle over the weekend in two games against the leading Vancouver Canucks, winning the first 8-2, and then dropping a hard-luck decision, 3-4, on Sunday.

After tomorrow, it's the Canucks at Vancouver on Friday and the Canucks back here on Saturday. Winding it up, the Cougars try the Totems in Seattle again on Sunday.

Laycoe is planning no lineup changes. "We'll snap out of it," he said. "We were due for a bad game or two after that streak and I think we got rid of them on the weekend."

ANOTHER VICTORY

After tomorrow, it's the Canucks at Vancouver on Friday and the Canucks back here on Saturday. Winding it up, the Cougars try the Totems in Seattle again on Sunday.

Laycoe is planning no lineup changes. "We'll snap out of it," he said. "We were due for a bad game or two after that streak and I think we got rid of them on the weekend."

Time to Expose Saboteurs

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Once the harvest has been gathered, it is always a temptation to heave a sigh of relief and let the vegetable plot look after itself, postponing the digging until later in the winter, or even until spring. Somehow, autumn doesn't bring with it the same urge to delve in the soil the way the spring does, yet there are a lot of advantages in getting the ground dug over roughly as soon as possible.

For one thing, if you do your digging now, you disturb a whole host of undercover agents such as wire worms, leatherjackets, chafer grubs and various fly larvae. At this time of the year, these saboteurs are still in the top six inches of soil, and digging will expose many of them to their natural enemies, the birds. By mid-December, they will have burrowed 12 inches or more underground.

But the chief reason why autumn digging pays off lies in its beneficial effect upon fertility. The action of disturbing the soil admits air, resulting in better aeration, and exposure to the weathering influences of frost, thaw, sun and rain. This weathering action—particularly alternating frost and thaw—improves the soil texture. Coarse particles are broken up more finely, and clay becomes less sticky and more friable.

To dig only, however, is not enough. The fertility released by digging must be husbanded and retained within the rooting range of future crops. The minerals salts so released must not be allowed to wash away into the subsoil by winter snow and rain. Digging must, therefore, go hand in hand with organic manuring, for the organic matter you put into your soil acts as a sponge, absorbing and holding the nutrient "soup" on which your plants feed.

Autumn manuring pays dividends in increased fertility just as autumn digging does. Most organic manures such as animal dung, farmyard manure, compost, plant debris, leafmould, peat moss, seaweed, and green manure crops all require to be assimilated by the soil before their plant foods become available.

In fact, fertility is temporarily depressed after digging in organic material. It must be broken down by soil bacteria, by beneficial fungus organisms, and by chemical action before it is any use to the crops, and by so occupying the attention of these soil populations, crops planted on freshly manured ground tend to suffer from a lack of nitrogen until the material has rotted down. This all takes time, and the fresher the material, the longer it will take to be assimilated.

Manure or any kind of organic rubbish dug into the soil in the fall is converted to good, black humus by spring, teeming with beneficial bacteria, and full of fertility. The same material dug in after the new year will remain almost in its raw state, with decomposition almost completely suspended until the soil warms up in the spring. The reason, of course, is because the bacteria which do the job of converting manure into humus go on a sit-down strike when the soil cools off, and stay off the job until conditions become comfortable again.

Never put the rake to fall-dug ground, however. Leave it in the roughest possible state so the greatest possible surface is exposed to the weather. After wind, frost, sun and thaw get in their licks, the coarse clods will fall apart at the touch of the rake in the spring.

Talk—and More Talk

"It never stops—talk, talk, talk," says one of the characters early in George Bernard Shaw's "Misalliance" which was presented on "Playhouse 90" the other night, and talk, talk, talk, it most certainly was for 90 long, charming, bubbly, but frequently exasperating minutes.

"Thank goodness, he's gone!" says another character. "Talk! Talk! Talk!" Says another. "We're going to talk some more." So they do. I was particularly enchanted by a passage at arms, when a character in desperation turns to Robert Morley and asks: "Tell me what to do." And Mr. Morley counsels: "Read something." That is the Shawian solution to most problems. In normal emergencies, talk. In moments of deeper stress, read something.

The play ends with the passage: "Is there anything else?" "I really don't think there's anything more to be said."

"Thank goodness." That last sentiment echoed the audience's, I'm not sure "Misalliance" is ready for television yet. Still, I'm proud and happy that "Playhouse 90" attempted it and "Misalliance" can now safely be returned to the stage where audiences are also known to get a little restive.

Robert Morley gave a full flavored but one-dimensional performance in the principal role. Claire Bloom was decorative, pert, and impish; Sibbald McKenna was muscular; Kenneth Haigh, Rod Taylor, John Williams, and Isobel Elson were all attractive and frightfully English. "Playhouse 90" still is looking for its first smash hit of the year. However, one of its prior smashes, "The Miracle Worker," has turned up on Broadway where it is also a smash.

The play is now in the province of the drama critics (who loved it) but I'd like to mention one small point that struck me. In dealing with the problem of getting through to a deaf, dumb, and blind child, Miss Annie Sullivan (Anne Bancroft) uses completely pre-Freudian methods (the child is going to be forced to behave if she has to tear the house down) and Mr. Gibson writes about it in totally non-Freudian terms.

Obedience and good manners are held up as absolute virtues and the use of simple old-fashioned force to impose them are practiced without questioning their effects on the little monster's psyche. I found this all terribly refreshing because Freud has laid so paralyzing a grip on our writers that they cannot write even about ancient times except in terms of Freudian rationalizations. I devoutly hope "The Miracle Worker" is a harbinger of a fresh approach to human motivation and human responses because I'm deadly sick of the Freudian ethic.

Lemmons May Marry Over Again

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Their intimate friends expect Jack Lemmon and ex-wife Cynthia to reconcile. Jack adores their son. And I hear he is still in love with Cynthia, who remarried and divorced after her divorce from Jack.

Brian Aherne, who wants to spend six months in his native England, is hoping to take his "Dear Liar" play with Katharine Cornell to the west end stage. It has been years since Brian lived there.

Anna Kashfi's major defence against Marlon Brando's lawsuit to see more of their son will be that he came barging in at all hours of the night, which she thought was bad for the boy. Marlon works late and is not good at keeping regular visiting hours.

Elizabeth Taylor's million-dollar guarantee for "Cleopatra" will be paid her over a period of 10 years. Otherwise, practically all of it would go to Uncle Sam.

The Dick Shavens expect their fourth child in five years, some time in November. "We have plenty of room," says Dick—"A home in California, New Jersey and Miami."

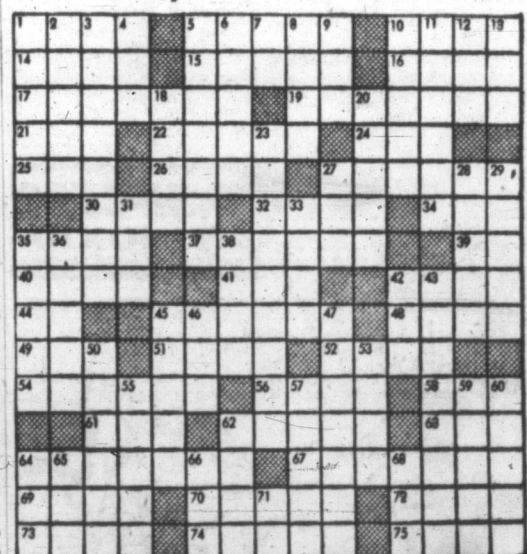

Jean Dailymple writes from New York that Helen Hayes will probably do "The Cherry Orchard" instead of "The Wisteria Trees"—the latter was based on the former—for Jean's "Egghead" series on television.

For a guy who almost quit show business because he didn't have cars to bring him from downtown Los Angeles to Hollywood in the early '30s Ray Milland is still doing all right. He just bought a fancy Jaguar to go with his new Rolls-Royce.

Chuck Connors applied to the state department for permission to be part of the "cultural exchange" with a rodeo act in Moscow. "I'd like to show them a true American art form," says the star of ABC's "The Rifleman."

Gregory Peck speaking: "I've done three pictures without a rest this year, and it looks as though I'll be busy until next July. Why do I do it? For the money."

Canada-First TV Proposal Meets with Mixed Reaction

OTTAWA (CP)—The Board of Broadcast Governors' proposal for a minimum 55 per cent of Canadian content weekly in television programming met with mixed reaction from interested groups Monday.

The Canadian Association of Broadcasters, with an obvious eye on the high costs of TV programs, thought the percentage too high, and suggested it should be 35 per cent at the start.

The Canadian Association of Advertising Agencies and the Association of Canadian Advertisers supported the CAB's view.

But the Canadian Labor Congress, among others, favoured the proposal and said it should be given a good try. And the Canadian Broadcasting League, of which the CLC is a member, said that the proposed percentage is needed to preserve Canadian self-expression and self-determination in the broadcasting medium.

The BBG, which opened two days of public hearings on its proposed TV regulations, will get more of the same type of argument today, when the publicly-owned CBC, followed by individual representations by private broadcasters, will be heard.

BREWERY BAN.

The board proposes that the 55 per cent Canadian content would be computed on a weekly basis.

Other representations Monday included those of:

The United Church of Canada which proposed a ban on sponsorship of sports programs, especially by breweries.

The Saint Jean Baptiste Society of Montreal which proposed a prohibition on suggestive songs and comedy material in TV.

MEDIOCRITY THREAT

Upper Canada Broadcasting Limited, applicant for a second TV station in Toronto, which described the 55-per-cent rule as a "reasonable initial proportion" but suggested it be struck on a monthly or quarterly basis.

terly basis to enable more flexible planning.

The Canadian Association of Broadcasters, which said it represented 41 privately-owned TV stations, suggested the 55-per-cent rule might result in making "the phrase 'Canadian content' synonymous with 'mediocre'."

"There is no use forcing Canadian television stations to carry programs that the people won't watch," it said.

PENNY GRABBING

Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, said the CLC hopes the board will reject any suggestion that rules be relaxed "simply to allow the stations to make more money."

"We want variety. We want competition. But we do not want a variety or competition which means simply that some people grab every penny they can lay their hands on, regardless of the national interest, while others are actually penalized for serving the national interest."

PUBLIC INTEREST

Professor Donald Creighton of the University of Toronto, chairman of the Canadian Broadcasting League, said the 55-per-cent rule was "absolutely essential to a truly national TV system."

The 2,300-member Association of Radio and Television Employees of Canada said:

"We have an interest in broadcasting as employees, and we hasten to declare it. Nonetheless, we urge that all matters of broadcasting policy must be judged only in the light of the public interest."

West's Four Will Meet On Dec. 19

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and the heads of government of Britain, France and West Germany will meet in Paris Dec. 19 to work out a solid Western stand for talks with Russia.

Agreement on the date and place of the meeting was announced in the four capitals Sunday. Prime subjects for discussion appear to be:

1. When do the leaders meet with Premier Khrushchev in a summit conference?
2. On what issues, if any, will they compromise in negotiations with him?

Van Doren Excused For Fibs?

NEW YORK (UPI)—District Attorney Frank Hogan indicated Monday that Charles Van Doren would not be indicted for perjury by the grand jury to whom he gave "incorrect statements."

At the same time, the New York County district attorney said the grand jury, in considering perjury indictments against other big-money quiz winners who gave false testimony, probably would be influenced by whether the contestants had shown any "sign of contrition."

Hogan said a "great number" of contestants had lied to the grand jury, and suggested that they correct their statements as soon as possible.

Once, Tears Welled in His Eyes

Shame in Famed Face

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In a hearing room that was almost as quiet as an isolation booth, Charles Van Doren bared his soul yesterday.

His public confession as a dishonest quiz show contestant was one of the most extraordinary events ever to take place in the historic, high-walled house caucus room.

The 33-year-old Columbia University professor's sensitive, mobile face, so familiar to television quiz show fans, was fixed with a webbed expression.

"Mr. Charles Van Doren," called out Rep. Oren Harris, chairman of the quiz show investigating subcommittee. "Yes, sir," Van Doren replied in a weak voice.

He listened attentively to

Harris' opening remarks. Then, in cultured, softly-modulated tones, he asked for a glass of water. One swallow launched him on the most painful experience of his life.

But throughout the ordeal of reading his prepared statement, outlining his role in the quiz-rigging deals, Van Doren never lost his poise. Once, during the questioning that followed, tears welled in his eyes.

But for the most part he never faltered or stumbled as he poured out his story.

During the comments and questioning that came later, Van Doren's eyes reflected gratitude at any kind words said for him. At other times, he lowered his head in a gesture of shame. He soothed his nerves by lighting one cigarette after another.

ARNOLD EDINBOROUGH

Expert's Advice to Public

Take Trash
To the Seller

By R. O. MARRION

Education, not legislation, is the answer to the problem of offensive literature on the bookstands, an authority on the problem said yesterday.

Arnold Edinborough, editor of Saturday Night, and a member of the Ontario committee on salacious literature, spoke to the Canadian Club, and said that in the long run, inculcation of a healthy attitude to literature was the only answer.

DO AS HE DOES

But people should do as he does, he said. "If you see an offensive book, take it to the seller and say, 'Look, do you want your children to read this?'"

"In the end, the reason he offers the stuff is that people buy it or don't protest against it being there."

But Mr. Edinborough, who arrived in time to address the club only by hiring a private plane after finding all regular flights from Vancouver fully booked, found cause for real alarm about obscenity only in one type of literature found on the bookstands.

NOTHING OBSCENE

There was certainly nothing that could be considered obscene in the newspapers, he said.

On the next shelf up were the smarter women's magazines, containing nothing objectionable except perhaps some of the "fiendish" diets and the influence on one's wife

"to buy more clothes than you think she should."

Next were the "thoughtful" magazines, and above them, at the eye-level of a short man, "the vast mass of material which gives some credence to the idea that there is a flood of filth on the bookstands."

But even in most of this material he saw nothing obscene. The "very frolicsome and lively" smarter magazine for men — the "playboy" type — couldn't be said to deprave or corrupt its readers, he said. There was nothing depraved or corrupt about the female figure. These magazines might "lead to promiscuousness but not to anything perverted."

NOT IMORAL

To a woman over 35 or 40 they might be offensive, he added, "but not on the grounds of immorality."

Then, he said, there were magazines directed to the less sophisticated young men, containing "articles emphasizing red-bloodedness, 'all rather violent,' but containing nothing depraved or corrupt."

For girls and young women at the same level were the "intimate romance" magazines, selling a quarter of a million copies a month in Canada. The stories, in the end, he said, were nauseatingly moral.

But then, he said, there were the crime books, not "dressed up with naked women," but treating the abnormal as normal and dealing with perverted and sadistic violence, and these were offensive.

So were some of the pocket-books, the covers of others carried a "good deal of false merchandising."

VICIOUS, DEPRAVED

Mr. Edinborough showed the club one pocketbook about a peeping Tom which, he said, "is a vicious and depraved book. I'm convinced of it."

He called for some barrier against this type of book, but was not enthusiastic about Canada's new definition of obscene literature.

The definition rules obscene any publication unduly exploiting its dominant characteristic either sex or sex and one or more of crime, horror, cruelty or violence.

There could be disagreement on dominance of characteristics, Mr. Edinborough held, and on exploitation being "undue." And, he said, the definition placed too much emphasis on sex, "which I think is wrong."

'Children All Over'

A new juvenile detention home including family and juvenile court facilities may be in the offing for Greater Victoria.

City council welfare committee yesterday called for estimates of the cost of such a building, behind the city health and welfare centre on Cook.

The committee also voted to send Greater Victoria councils information on how a family and juvenile court would be established and work, and to ask for their support.

Juvenile court in the city is now held at the health and welfare centre, and Ald. M. H. Mooney urged that better facilities be provided "at once."

Children waiting to appear in court, he said, were "all over the place and on the street," and it wasn't proper that children appearing in court, perhaps for the first time, should have to wait in a public place.

Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson, juvenile detention home committee chairman, welcomed this expression of opinion because she had a report from the city engineer of remodeling the detention home on Coldharbour or building a new one.

The engineer said a wing could be added to the present home, providing segregation facilities, for about $15,000, but it would reduce the resale value of the house.

A new home for 12 boys and eight girls, with ample opportunity for expansion and inclusion of a court, could be built for $72,000, he estimated. "It's going to be $125,000 before we're through," Ald. D. J. Proudfoot predicted. But he added that it was "quite right to go for a new place."

680 October Permits

Victoria Building Up,
Other Areas Down

Construction figures for the first 10 months of the year were up in Victoria and Esquimalt and down slightly in Oak Bay and Saanich compared to figures for the same period in 1958.

In Victoria, it is a case of more money being spent on fewer buildings. A total of 5,874 permits for work worth $7,625,395 were issued this year compared to 6,089 permits for work totalling $6,455,390 in 1958.

For the month of October, 680 permits were issued for construction costing $1,113,136. Last year in October there were 625 permits issued worth $421,211.

In Esquimalt, 15 permits were issued in October worth $104,100, bringing the total for the year to 186 permits worth $1,430,049. In October, 1958, there were 13 permits issued worth $42,600, and the 10-month totals were 197 permits worth $1,302,523.

A total of 371 permits were issued in Oak Bay for the first 10 months of the year costing $2,183,762. Totals for the first 10 months of 1958 were 392 permits for $2,724,844.

In Saanich, figures are down a little from the record showing in 1958. A total of 1,000 permits have been issued for work costing $7,994,429. Figures for 1958 were 1,182 permits worth $9,545,227.

Albertan Fined
After One Month

NANAIMO—John Saiko, the man who waited a month for his trial, was convicted yesterday and fined $15.

Saiko, a visitor to Nanaimo from Wildwood, Alberta, was found guilty of failing to yield right of way to a bus in a city intersection.

Last week, defence counsel Ronald F. MacIsaac protested against any further adjournment. He told the court that it was not until 13 days after the Oct. 2 accident that the charge was laid.

Saiko then appeared in police court three times, only to hear the case adjourned. During his last appearance, he said it was costing him "plenty of money" to prolong his stay in the hub city.

Magistrate Lionel Beever, Potts yesterday disallowed Mr. MacIsaac's questioning on the subject.

"You have made a big enough to-do already," he told the lawyer. He said it had no bearing on the case.

After a 2½-hour hearing, the magistrate said police could not be criticized for the delay because Mr. Saiko had been hospitalized with injuries received in the accident.

"I appreciate, however, that he has been held up to some extent and I will take that into consideration," the magistrate said.

The accident demolished Saiko's car, and caused serious damage to the bus. Driver Jack Merlo said he saw Saiko's car "flash" in front of him and was unable to stop.

He agreed under cross-examination that Nanaimo's street system could be confusing to a newcomer. There were no traffic controls at the Victoria Road-Farquhar Street intersection where the smash-up occurred.

The accused said he did not see the bus, even though he was only travelling at 15 miles an hour and looked both left and right.

Vandals
Spare
Parks

City parks committee had a welcome surprise yesterday.

"There was no detectable vandalism in the parks at all this Halloween," Parks Administrator W. H. Warren told the aldermen. "There was much less trouble than in probably 20 years."

50 Workers
Building
Big Barges

Some 50 shipyard workers at Yarrows Ltd. are employed in construction of two gravel barges for use in construction of the Tsawwassen ferry terminal.

The $120,000 contract was awarded by Gulf of Georgia Towing Co.

First of the all-steel barges, each 110 feet long with a 38-foot beam and depth of 10 feet 6 inches, is scheduled for launching this Thursday.

Saanich Council

Fluoridation, Park Funds
Will Go Before Voters

Saanich council last night unanimously voted to hold a December vote on fluoridation.

Reeve George Chatterton said: "This has been a contentious issue and the people should be given a chance to settle it."

Several councillors indicated they didn't necessarily favor fluoridation. Oak Bay has already decided to hold a vote on the issue, while Esquimalt has decided against such a vote. Victoria city council has yet to make a stand.

Saanich council last night also voted to hold a referendum this year on funds for park purchases in the municipality.

The referendum will ask voters if they favor placing about $30,000 annually into a special fund for purchase of land for park and recreation use.

Council also rejected a rezoning application for a shopping centre for Cadboro Bay.

Some 70 local residents attended the public hearing on the application which lasted almost two hours. There was strong opposition. Objections included "unfairness" to local merchants and increased traffic hazard.

Coun. Stanley Murphy, who alone voted against the motion turning down the application on behalf of Kelly Douglas

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: When I married I knew what I was getting into. My husband had four children by a divorced wife. It was understood that he was to support them until they were 21, and put them through college. I knew, too, they would spend three months out of every year with us.

A few weeks ago my husband decided to drive the two younger children back to their mother's home. The older ones wanted to go by train. Since it's a 400-mile trip we could drive it in one day.

The question came up of where to spend the night once we reached the destination. My husband said "Let's stay with Millie and save the hotel bill." I said, "Absolutely not. I couldn't sleep a wink in her home." He got mad, said I was nuts on the subject and was trying to be mean.

I'll leave it to you. Am I nuts, or do I have a point?—SECOND WIND.

It Makes No Sense

Dear Second: You have a point, indeed. It makes no sense for you to spend the night in the home of your husband's former wife if you're even remotely uncomfortable about it.

Insist on a hotel—and let him save on something else.

Dear Ann: What can I do about a wife who is reasonable and intelligent about everything but refuses to wear her hearing aid.

It's annoying the way she breaks into conversations and asks questions which were just answered. People who aren't aware that she has a

Drop in for Dinner

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have two sisters who live at opposite ends of town. They each have three children. We have not had a Sunday alone that I can remember.

The sisters, their husbands and children drop in every Sunday after church (which is seven blocks from our home). Naturally we must offer them dinner. It's always the same story: "Don't fix anything extra for us. Whatever you have handy is just fine. We aren't company."

Now, Ann, how in God's name can you feed 10 additional people without fixing something extra?

I don't have the nerve to tell them to eat home. Also Sunday is the only day my husband and I have together as we both work six days a week. Please advise me.—TRAPPED.

'59 Polio Total At Least 1,500

OTTAWA (UPI)—Canada will list at least 1,500 cases of paralytic polio this year, it was indicated Saturday.

The health department said that 1,451 cases had been reported as of Oct. 24. It compared with only 218 cases in the same period a year ago.

With 10 weeks to go until the end of the year, authorities said, the 1959 total was all but certain to pass the 1,500 mark.

The disease has caused 130 deaths across the country so far this year. A year earlier the death toll was 21. British Columbia has had 66 cases with 11 deaths.

Worry of FALSE TEETH Slipping or Irritating?

Don't be embarrassed by loose false teeth slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, talk or laugh. Just sprinkle a little PASTETH on your plates. This pleasant powder gives a remarkable sense of added comfort and security by holding plates more firmly. No gummy, soapy, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). See PASTETH at any drug counter.

Vanier Aide To Be Wed

LONDON (CP)—Esmond Butler, secretary-designate to Governor-General Vanier, yesterday announced his engagement to Georgiann North, 31-year-old former interior decorator.

No date has been set for the wedding, which is to take place in London.

Butler, now winding up his term as assistant press secretary at Buckingham Palace, is to fly to Ottawa Nov. 14 to take up his new post at Government House.

When his duties permit he will return to London briefly to make arrangements for the wedding.

Miss North, cousin of the Earl of Guilford, a landowner in Kent, will remain in London until Butler returns.

His fiancée is a fairly tall girl with dark brown hair. They have been friends for more than a year.

The 37-year-old Butler met Miss North through Anthea Fairfax-Ross, formerly on the press staff at the palace. The two women share an apartment.

Butler said he does not think his parents, who live in Weston, a Toronto suburb, will come to Britain for the wedding.

He said it will be a "very small, quiet" ceremony.

Princess Weekend Guest At Bachelor's Estate

LONDON (UPI)—Princess Margaret spent a three-day weekend as a guest at bachelor Alan Godsal's 2,500-acre estate, 30 miles from London.

Godsal is the one who retrieved the princess' slipper at a London ball a few days ago.

Her visit, unlike many royal weekends, was kept quiet.

A carpet of leaves, a crystal pond, fallen trees and the mystery of the last run of the salmon going up to spawning grounds, attracted hundreds of people to Goldstream Sunday. Watching for salmon are Mrs. Jean Elder and Mrs. Gerri Pike.

They Were There

Fishwatchers by Thousand Kept Waiting by Salmon

Goldstream River, dappled with sunshine and framed with moss and fallen leaves, attracted thousands for the annual salmon run Sunday.

The trick was to find the fish.

Hundreds of cars headed out the Island Highway to Goldstream Flats for the bonfire and sale of hot dogs arranged each Sunday during November by Solarium Junior League.

They also went to see the salmon fighting their way up the sparkling little river fed by the Sooke Hills.

They saw the water-washed rocks, the dark fern in the moist gullies, ghostly trees clothed in moss, and the giant cedar and maples. They stared intently at the bubbling crystal water and saw—no salmon.

Half a hundred people said the run was over. Others said it would not begin for another month. One child, skipping the stream via a damp, fallen log, fell in.

Strolling families, enchanted by the woods and the leafy carpet underfoot, hiked up the road to Highland Valley or climbed the Finlayson Trail, coming down with armfuls of leaves, all shades of gold.

INTOXICATING AIR

In the intoxicating air, the salmon rumored to be fighting their way up stream, were almost forgotten.

Crowds of boys poked about the gravel on the river-bottom looking for gold. In 1863 Victoria's own gold rush took place on the flats.

Finally the daylight faded and the cars started back to town. Most people had seen no fish, except a knowledgeable handful with inside information.

Those who knew where to go, headed further up the highway, turned right at the sign which reads "Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association," and carried on down to the clubhouse.

HALF SALT

There in the deep water, which is half salt, were the salmon.

Hundreds of fish a dull, tarnished silver, or discolored to blue-black, milled around the still pools. Some arched out of the water, ready to fight, some were so tired they looked as if they were treading water.

"They are waiting," said one onlooker, "for rain to swell the stream before they go up. It might be three weeks before they reach the Goldstream bridge. Many of them will die before they reach the spawning grounds."

There is something mystical about the last days of the salmon—quite unrelated to hot dogs.

Wendy Out Again

LONDON (AP) — Wendy Hyde—the 14-year-old who insists on wearing tight skirts and high-heeled shoes to school—was sent home still another time yesterday. She is backed by her father and mother.

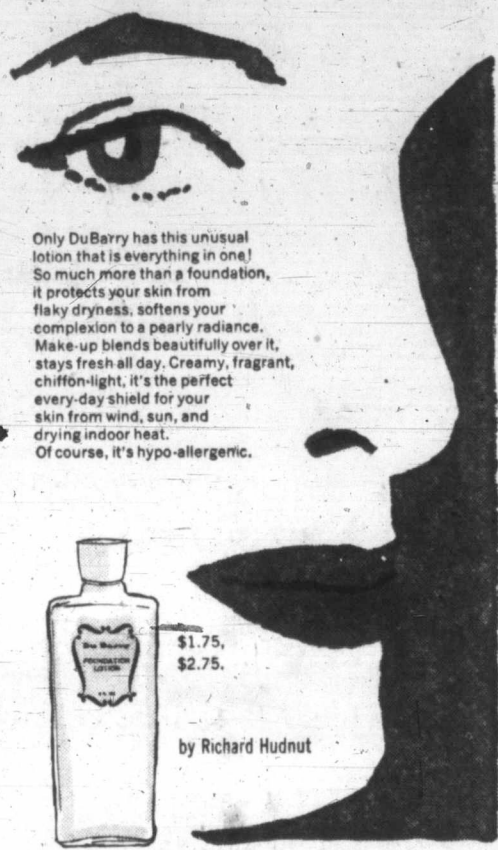

Twice daily since early last month Principal James Rimmer has refused to let Wendy attend in clothes he says are improper.

A local court earlier fined papa Geoffrey Hyde £1 on a technical charge of not sending his daughter to school regularly.

Last week Wendy said she surrendered and would wear "flaties and full skirts."

But yesterday she changed her mind and went to school in a tight-fitting dress, spike heels and nylons.

Aldermen Tired of 'Playing Father Christmas'

'Pay City or Lose School'

Victoria should take over S. J. Willis Junior High School as a new city hall, Ald. M. H. Mooney suggested yesterday, if the school board won't pay the city for the property.

He made the suggestion without appearing to be joking, and Ald. D. J. Proudfoot was equally indignant about the school board using the land for the last 10 years without paying for it.

Parks committee voted to recommend to city council that the board be asked to pay, rent or buy city-owned land it uses. (Other land in question includes city-owned property off Gorge Road near Burpside School, on which the board built workshops and laid a road without city permission.) Mrs. W. W. McGill, chairman of the school board, reacted to the parks committee action by saying, "We don't understand why city council keeps on flogging a dead horse."

"We assumed that this matter was settled early this year to the satisfaction of both the school board and city council as the result of a directive from the minister of education on this whole matter."

T. L. Christie, secretary-treasurer of the school board, when told last night of comments made by the aldermen, replied, "Call me at my office tomorrow. How do you expect me to comment at home?"

"We've been Father Christmas to everybody," said Ald. Proudfoot. When new schools are built in Saanich, he said, property has to be bought and Victoria has to pay 50 per cent of the municipal share of the cost.

"Let's sell this to the school board," he said. "When the budget comes in, let's value the property and rent it, to them, deducting the amount from their budget. We can do it."

If the board wouldn't pay, he said, "next year I won't allow their budget to pass. I'll filibuster if necessary."

Coast Trade for City If Ship Calls Here

Victoria wholesalers have a golden opportunity to regain the lucrative trade from the west coast of Vancouver Island if they can persuade Northland Navigation Co. to put Victoria on its new schedule.

Ivan H. Clarke, storekeeper, postmaster, and fish-buyer at Hot Springs Cove on the Island's west coast, is asking Victoria Chamber of Commerce to approach the company after learning that a new steamer schedule was to go into effect.

The route was changed, excluding Victoria, three years ago and west coast storekeepers, who had purchased their supplies from Victoria wholesalers for 75 years, were forced to transfer their trade to Vancouver dealers.

Now, instead of making the trip north around Vancouver Island, Northland's new Tahsis Prince goes to the west coast from Vancouver via Juan de Fuca Strait. Victoria could easily be included, says Mr. Clarke.

Fugitive Driver Sought

Victoria police yesterday were still seeking a driver who fled the scene after being involved in a two-car crash Saturday at Bay and Shelbourne.

In good condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital yesterday was the other car's driver, Pauline Bradshaw, 27, of 1566 Hampshire, a teacher at Happy Valley School who suffered neck and leg injuries.

Miss Bradshaw's car was overturned on top of a fence in front of 1704 Bay, about 60 feet from the point of impact, with the driver pinned inside.

Police found that the other car involved had been reported stolen earlier from a grease rack at Avenue Shell Service, 1828 Oak Bay. Registered owner is Charles James Riley, 1990 Oak Bay.

In a second crash Saturday night in which a car overturned, the driver escaped unhurt although damage to the vehicle was estimated at $1,000.

Janke Friederichsen, 111 Gorge, was driver of the car which went over a slight embankment and rolled onto its roof when he attempted to turn into Fowler from Sayward.

Also Saturday night, Robert Campbell, 13, of 2517 Mount Stephen, was slightly hurt when, a witness said, he ran into the street and collided with a car, suffering a head injury.

The mishap occurred at Cedar Hill and Acton. Driver of the car was Edward Laroue, 1543 Edgeware.

Rites Today For Artist

Funeral services for Mrs. Theresa Deane-Drummond, 90, pioneer Victoria resident and well-known B.C. artist, will be held at 1:30 p.m. today in St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay.

Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunn will officiate, and burial will be in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

NEW YORK (CP)—The value of the Canadian dollar in terms of U.S. currency reached a high for 1959 Monday of $1.0534.

Traders said the strength of the Canadian dollar resulted from heavy financing by public and private borrowers in U.S. capital markets.

HERE'S WHAT MAKES the # CORVAIR REVOLUTIONARY

Short and sweet! Engine's in the rear — where it belongs in a compact car. With more weight on rear wheels, you get extra road-gripping traction for cornering and driving on ice, mud or snow. Also, by avoiding nose-heaviness of front-engine compact cars, Corvair handles easier, brakes better, rides smoother. Styling of both 4-door models is clean and uncluttered... as fresh and functional as modern architecture.

1 AIR COOLED
You never have to fuss with antifreeze. Turbo-Air 6 warms up quicker, with less wear on parts. Airplane-type heater* goes to work almost instantly.

2 Unpack Power Team
Engine, transmission and drive gears are neatly wrapped in one lightweight package. Takes less space, leaves you more.

3 UNISTRUT BODY BY FISHER
Body and frame are combined into a single, rigidly constructed unit that reduces Corvair's weight, enlarges its passenger space.

4 TRUNK'S UP FRONT
Lots of luggage space under the hood, where it's convenient for groceries, packages. Corvair's spare tire's easy to get at, too.

5 Practically FLAT FLOOR
Corvair is Canada's only compact car with a virtually flat floor that gives you full 6-passenger comfort. For extra storage space, folding rear seat* converts easily to make room for 17.6 cu. ft. of cargo. *Optional at extra cost.

6 NEARLY 3 FEET SHORTER
Corvair's almost 5 inches lower, over 1,300 pounds lighter, too. Its compact size makes it a joy to jockey through traffic, a pleasure to park. No need for power assists.

7 Revolutionary Rear Engine
Works small miracles with mileage. It's the world's first production 6 with the ultra-smooth power of horizontally-opposed pistons.

8 4-Wheel Independent Suspension
Springs at each wheel cushion bumps independently of each other for a ride that rivals much costlier cars.

...and the most practical thing of all is Corvair's LOW PRICE

see it drive it Corvair BY CHEVROLET
(the happiest driving compact car)

You just can't make a happier compact car choice than this new Chevrolet Corvair. And when you boil down the reasons why it's such a happy one to handle, you'll find — behind them all — Corvair's revolutionary rear engine. With engine weight in the rear — where it belongs in a compact car — you get sure-footed traction, lighter steering and smoother, more even four-wheel braking. You also enjoy the 6-passenger comfort of a practically flat floor, the poised, unruffled ride of 4-wheel independent suspension and smooth power from an engine mounted where heat and noise are carried away from passengers on the windstream.

The plain truth is that never before have you been able to get such a wealth of engineering for such a modest slice of your budget. Why don't you drop into your Chevrolet dealer's for all the short, sweet details.

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

There's nothing like a new car — and no compact car like this de luxe Corvair 700.

Lye Thrower Faces Charge

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police Monday night charged Mrs. Rose Schneiderman, 59, with assaulting another woman by throwing lye in her face. Mrs. Schneiderman will appear in police court today on assault charges. Mrs. Jessie Allan of nearby Richmond was treated in hospital for face burns.

70 Killed African Rioting Spreads

STANLEYVILLE, Belgian Congo (Reuters) — African unrest Monday was reported spreading outside this riot-torn town on the eve of a Belgian Parliamentary debate on the Congo's future.

Governor-General Henri Cornet broadcast an appeal for a return to law and order after two days of violent weekend rioting in which 70 negroes were reported killed. He declared Belgian authorities will not hesitate to use police and military forces to stamp out violence in this eastern province.

A military-enforced quiet was evident in Stanleyville but strikes involving more than 800 native workers at four other centres near the city were reported by the Belgian News Agency.

Reason for the strikes was not known immediately. Observers here believe, however, they might have resulted from a call by African nationalists last week for a civil disobedience campaign. At the community of Yatomela workers' demands included a car for each man.

Other Africans were reported blocking a road running between Stanleyville and Opala, about 95 miles northeast, and looting cars.

Houses and plantations along this road were pillaged, the news agency reported.

Europe Suffers

Drought Benefits Canada

WASHINGTON (CP) — Northern Europe has been hit by a drought, opening greater overseas markets for Canadian and United States food products.

Collecting information from its overseas offices, the U.S. agriculture department Monday reported the drought has burned pastures and shrivelled root and forest crops in large parts of a region extending from Britain east into Russia and from the Alps north into Scandinavia.

The damage to grass and the late hay crops in northwestern Europe appears to be more severe than in any drought year of this century, the department said. Many of the European pastures will have to be reseeded. Grain crops generally escaped the damage, but meat and milk production apparently were badly hit.

Civil Defence Asks U.S. For Millions

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Top civil defence officials urged the federal government yesterday to assume a larger role in protecting against the dangers of an atomic war.

Leo A. Hoegh, director of the office of civil defence mobilization, said Congress will be asked for a $1,000,000 monthly appropriation to match state civil defence in future.

Hoegh said a standing operational program is being formulated and should be ready for dispersal to the states by January.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An investigation of looting by policemen has resulted in the arrest and jailing of seven members of the Columbus police department.

Department officials said the investigation began more than a month ago following reports that merchandise disappeared during burglary investigations by uniformed patrolmen.

Federal Agents Find

Gambling Ring Next Door Police Face Investigation

BOSTON (AP) — A high police official Monday put the East Boston police station under investigation after federal treasury agents crushed what they called a multi-million-dollar gambling ring allegedly operating in the shadow of that station.

Police commissioner Leo J. Sullivan ordered the investigation after the arrest by federal agents of 12 persons and the seizure of gambling equipment, including 17 cars, bookkeeping material and $20,000 in cash.

TORONTO (CP) — The University of Toronto will make a concerted attempt to bring back Canadian scholars who occupy senior posts in the United States, President Claude T. Bissell says.

FIRST REPORT

In his first report to the university's senate and board of governors, released Monday, Dr. Bissell said appointment and retention of good staff members is the most important way of maintaining the university as an intellectual community in the face of expanding enrolment.

He said the university has already had some success in attracting scholars from the U.S., "and we intend to pursue the policy with vigor."

REMAIN ON PAR

"To be able to do this we must make sure our salaries remain on a par with the salaries paid in the senior American universities — such universities as Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Chicago and California — for it is with these universities that our competition lies."

He said that Metropolitan Toronto is the "real crisis point" in Canada's expanding university enrolment.

Israel Votes Today

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Every taxicab in Israel was chartered to help get voters to the polls in a general election today that is expected to return Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion to power.

Observers agreed there would be no landslide despite the fact that the 72-year-old Ben-Gurion is the hero of Israel and the most powerful man in the country.

DR. ARNOLD TOYNBEE
... humane new order

Historian:

Cut Births —Or Starve

ROME (UPI) — British historian-philosopher Dr. Arnold Toynbee said Monday mankind must accept birth control, or else "sooner or later famine will stalk abroad again" in an over-populated world.

His statement before the 10th convention of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization was made with diplomatic immunity. It is a crime to advocate birth control in Roman Catholic Italy.

Toynbee, author of the monumental "Study of History," said civilization has increased the life span of mankind and has cut down the inroads of death—by famine, pestilence and war.

"We have started to impose on nature's heartless play a humane new order of our own," he said. "But when once man has begun to interfere with nature he cannot afford to stop half way."

"We cannot, with impunity, cut down the death rate and at the same time allow the birth rate to go on taking nature's course. We must consciously try to establish an equilibrium or sooner or later, famine will stalk abroad again."

"It would be a mistake to try to hurry the process," he said. "Pressure would be likely to defeat its own purpose."

No Paralysis

Man from Sooke Hit by Polio

Bertrand Ogden, 30, of West Coast Road near Sooke, was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital Sunday suffering from polio.

He was in satisfactory condition last night at hospital, where a spokesman said he was not paralyzed and use of an iron lung was not necessary.

Mr. Ogden was the 14th polio victim reported on Vancouver Island this year.

"Two boys died of polio in British Columbia Monday, bringing the death toll from the disease in the province this year to 13."

A five-year-old boy from the Anahim Indian Reservation in the Alexis Creek district of the Cariboo and an 11-year-old Mission City boy were the latest victims.

Neither were identified. The boy from the Anahim reservation received one shot of Salk anti-polio vaccine.

Three other new cases were also reported, bringing the year's total to 79.

Two 37-year-old men, one from Kamloops, the other from Kamloops, were both in hospital with bulbar polio. A 32-year-old Bella Coola woman also contracted the disease.

Safecracking Tools in Car

Court Convicts Vice-Principal

EDMONTON (CP) — Michael Kondratyuk, former vice-principal of Parkview School in Morinville, Alta., Monday was sentenced to two years after being convicted in Supreme Court on charges of possession of safecracking tools and explosives.

A third charge of break and entry was dismissed because of lack of evidence. It was laid in connection with the breaking and entering of the Credit and Savings building in Morinville, a town 20 miles north of Edmonton, Aug. 6.

Kondratyuk worked in Edmonton during the summer as a taxi driver. He was vice-principal of the Morinville school until last June 9.

City police said they discovered fuse, nitric acid, glycerine, detonating caps, an eye dropper and a glass cutter in Kondratyuk's car Aug. 7 when they went to summons him for speeding.

"What are we employing in this country by way of school teachers?" asked Mr. Justice J. M. Cairns as he sentenced Kondratyuk. Defence counsel Ed Sulley said his client has received psychiatric treatment since the charges were laid.

Confesses in Shame Big Show Rigged

NEW YORK (AP) — Charles Van Doren apparently managed to spend most of his $50,000 in TV winnings in three years while earning $50,000 a year as a TV consultant and working as a professor.

"I owe more than I have left," Van Doren told reporters in Washington Monday after he told a Congressional committee his famous performance on the Twenty-One quiz show was all a fake.

When Van Doren went on the show late in 1956, he was a $4,200-a-year instructor at Columbia University.

PILED UP $129,000

When he left the show, he had piled up $129,000 in winnings for answering questions he now says were mostly from a memorized script.

Because he married shortly after he collected his winnings in 1957, and was able to file a joint tax return, Van Doren was able to keep from $20,000 to $55,000 of the $129,000. The marriage saved him about $20,000 in income taxes.

Later, Van Doren, still doing his teaching job at Columbia, was hired by the National Broadcasting Company as an educational consultant at $50,000 a year.

SUBSTANTIAL RAISE

Still later he was made an assistant professor at Columbia with a substantial raise in pay.

Van Doren hasn't said where the money went but he bought the old family home in Greenwich Village and bought at least two new cars, including an expensive sports car. He also lived in a swank Manhattan apartment for a time.

The fallen idol of the TV quiz shows confessed in shame and anguish Monday that he was deeply involved in rigging the defunct, scandal-tinged Twenty-One quiz show.

RESIGNS

In a matter of hours, Columbia University accepted Van Doren's resignation as an assistant professor of English, effective immediately.

Van Doren also faces possible perjury charges in court, for admitted misstatements to a New York grand jury investigating the rigging of TV shows, and perhaps an end to his $50,000-a-year television career.

For three years the 33-year-old English instructor had concealed, in fear and folly, he said, that the $129,000 he won on Twenty-One were dishonest dollars.

UNDER INDICTMENT

The man who coached him, he told a House of Representatives commerce subcommittee, was Albert Freedman, the producer of the show. Freedman already is under indictment on charges of lying when he denied to a grand jury that the program was fixed.

In New York, the National Broadcasting Company said it was withholding comment on Van Doren's testimony for the present. Freedman could not be located for his reaction.

At one time, Van Doren testified under questioning Freedman told him, "Charlie, I think I ought to have $5,000 of that money."

NOT THAT WAY

Van Doren said he was sorry he ever mentioned that—not that he was trying still to hide something but "I don't think Mr. Freedman meant that the way it sounds."

The matter never was brought up again, he said, and no arrangement was made between him and Freedman.

Van Doren's 90-minute session was every bit as tense and dramatic as any of his 14 appearances in the NBC isolation booth in late 1956 and early 1957.

500 SPECTATORS

Instead of millions of television viewers—the House allows no televising of hearings—perhaps 500 spectators packed elbow to elbow into the house caucus room.

Among them were Van Doren's wife and his father, Mark, the poet.

Also there was Herbert Stempel, a contestant Van Doren dethroned on the quiz program. It was Stempel

Bells Toll Traffic Fatalities

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary yesterday launched a high-pressure traffic safety campaign which it hopes will include such features as church bells ringing every half-hour on days when there has been a fatal traffic accident.

The campaign started with a drive on jaywalkers. The first person ticketed was City Commissioner E. C. Thomas, caught walking across the middle of a block near City Hall.

To back up its get-tough policy 10 new constables will be added to its traffic squads.

Sweeps Winner Fetes Skid Row Pals

NEW WESTMINSTER (C.P.)—George Brown, a 77-year-old pensioner who won $140,000 last week in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes, came out of his hiding Monday feeling just a little bit sorry for himself.

George disappeared on a celebration bender with his old Skid Row pals when he learned of his big win last Wednesday.

"And I'm paying for it now,"

he muttered the former logger, holding his head and looking at the piles of empty beer and gin bottles stacked in the kitchen of a friend's room in the building where he lives.

"I've had my fun and I've got to sober up," he said. "It's too much—$140,000. What's an old man like me going to do with all that?"

"I'd have been much happier with only about $12,000," he grinned.

"You know, I've already gone through a couple of hundred," he got an advance on my ticket from a friend."

George shakily lit a crumpled cigarette and removed his hat to stroke his bald head.

"The money's not going to make any difference to me. I have lived alone and kept to myself all my life. I'm too old to change now."

"What do I want to move from here for?" he asked, referring to the room with the outdoor toilet he rents for $12 a month in a dingy rooming-house. "I'm quite happy."

The tall, stooping Scotsman said he'll probably put about $50,000 of the money in the bank and "give the rest away to friends who've helped me when things have been tough."

George started his giveaway program Saturday by taking his old friend Vic Fairfield to get fitted for a new suit.

"We went to the best tailor in town," beamed Vic. "George said to me, 'Get anything you want.'"

The two elderly men were fitted with $155 suits. Then they went back to skid row to continue the celebration.

"George was buying drinks for everyone," said Vic. "We toured all the old places and sat right in the middle of the rooms so his friends would see us when they came in."

George has already been swamped with mail from banks, investment houses, and people asking for money.

One letter was from a 63-year-old Kelowna woman who said she owns her own home and if he's interested she'll send her photograph.

"I'm not interested in any women," said George. "I've never been married because I've never been in love, and I'm too old to start now."

Cars Can't Stand Pace

U.K. in Freeway Frenzy

LONDON (UPI)—England opened its first "superhighway" yesterday—a road described by cynics as the first decent one built here since the Romans—and the accidents came as fast as the cheers.

Within the first few hours of its opening, the 72-mile, six-lane, no-speed limit highway between London and Birmingham was littered with overheated, over-worked cars, over-driven by over-enthusiastic motorists. One car's engine fell out.

Some of the earliest travelers zoomed jubilantly over the highway at speeds of well over 100 miles an hour. Minister of Transport Ernest Marples, who did the opening honors, said: "I've never seen anybody going so fast in my life!"

Psychological Deaths? Worried Kiernan Asks

Alarm at the number of fatal accidents in the mining industry so far this year, was expressed yesterday by Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan.

He said there have been 16 deaths compared with four last year. The total is three above the 10-year average for a complete year—with two months still to go.

As the calls piled up from broken down cars that couldn't stand the pace, it appeared that Marples, and other officials already were planning to take a look at the "no speed limit" arrangement.

The $60,000,000 broad highway, with three lanes in each direction, is along the lines of North American turnpikes.

"One of every three cars was not even in the proper lane," Marples complained.

Mr. Kiernan said no pattern for the accidents could be found except thoughtlessness.

He pointed to the record number of traffic fatalities this year and offered a suggestion that some psychological force must be working on people and making them go out and get killed.

whose charges led to evidence that the show was fixed.

Wednesday's upvarnished drama showed that all those apparent, mental pangs Van Doren went through in downing Stempel and a string of other competitors were faked.

KNEW AHEAD

Van Doren said he knew ahead of time what he was going to be asked. He was coached on the answers and how to deliver them for maximum entertainment impact, he said, and even was given scripts to memorize in advance.

"I was involved, deeply involved, in a deception," he testified, adding that "I would give almost anything I have to reverse the course of my life in the last three years."

De Rouman of New York declined to go along with commitments that other committee members showered on the witness for telling the truth.

"I don't think an adult of your intelligence should be commended for telling the truth," De Rouman declared in severe tones.

Van Doren winced, flushed, and ducked his head.

Van Doren said Freedman stressed that he would be doing a great service to the intellectual life, teachers and education in general by appearing on the program.

Foolishly and wrongly, Van Doren said, he persuaded himself to believe Freedman even though he was "sick at heart" from an intense moral struggle inside himself.

When he had concluded, with a "God bless you" from chairman Oren Harris, Van Doren told reporters in slow, measured words: "I feel better than I have felt in three years."

While there was a burst of applause when Harris dismissed Van Doren with a "God bless you," there was applause, too, when Republican Representative Steven B.

Canada-First TV Proposal Meets with Mixed Reaction

OTTAWA (CP)—The Board of Broadcast Governors' proposal for a minimum 55 per cent of Canadian content weekly in television programming met with mixed reaction from interested groups Monday.

The Canadian Association of Broadcasters, with an obvious eye on the high costs of TV programs, thought the percentage too high, and suggested it should be 35 per cent at the start.

The Canadian Association of Advertising Agencies and the Association of Canadian Advertisers supported the CAB's view.

But the Canadian Labor Congress, among others,

favoured the proposal and said it should be given a good try. And the Canadian Broadcasting League, of which the CBC is a member, said that the proposed percentage is needed to preserve Canadian self-expression and self-determination in the broadcasting medium.

The BBG, which opened two days of public hearings on its proposed TV regulations, will get more of the same type of argument today, when the publicly-owned CBC, followed by individual representations by private broadcasters, will be heard.

BREWERY BAN
The board proposes that the 55 per cent Canadian content would be computed on a weekly basis.

Other representations Monday included those of:
The United Church of Canada which proposed a ban on sponsorship of sports programs, especially by breweries.

The Saint Jean Baptiste Society of Montreal which proposed a prohibition on suggestive songs and comedy material in TV.

MEDIOCRITY THREAT
Upper Canada Broadcasting Limited, applicant for a second TV station in Toronto, which described the 55-per-cent rule as a "reasonable initial proportion" but suggested it be struck on a monthly or quarterly basis.

terly basis to enable more flexible planning.

The Canadian Association of Broadcasters, which said it represented 41 privately-owned TV stations, suggested the 55-per-cent rule might result in making "the phrase 'Canadian content' synonymous with 'mediocrity'."

"There is no use forcing Canadian television stations to carry programs that the people won't watch," it said.

PENNY GRABBING
Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, said the CBC hopes the board will reject any suggestion that rules be relaxed "simply to allow the stations to make more money."

"We want variety. We want competition. But we don't want a variety of competition which means simply that some people grab every penny they can lay their hands on, regardless of the national interest, while others are actually penalized for serving the national interest."

PUBLIC INTEREST
Professor Donald Creighton of the University of Toronto, chairman of the Canadian Broadcasting League, said the 55-per-cent rule was "absolutely essential to a truly national TV system."

The 2,300-member Association of Radio and Television Employees of Canada said: "We have an interest in broadcasting as employees, and we hasten to declare it. Nonetheless, we urge that all matters of broadcasting policy must be judged only in the light of the public interest."

West's Four Will Meet On Dec. 19

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and the heads of government of Britain, France and West Germany will meet in Paris Dec. 19 to work out a solid Western stand for talks with Russia.

Agreement on the date and place of the meeting was announced in the four capitals Sunday. Prime subjects for discussion appear to be:

1. When do the leaders meet with Premier Khrushchev in a summit conference?
2. On what issues, if any, will they compromise in negotiations with him?

Van Doren Excused For Fibs?

NEW YORK (UPI)—District Attorney Frank Hogan indicated Monday that Charles Van Doren would not be indicted for perjury by the grand jury to whom he gave "incorrect statements."

At the same time, the New York County district attorney said the grand jury, in considering perjury indictments against other big-money quiz winners who gave false testimony, probably would be influenced by whether the contestants had shown any "sign of contrition."

Hogan said a "great number" of contestants had lied to the grand jury, and suggested that they correct their statements as soon as possible.

Once, Tears Welled in His Eyes Shame in Famed Face

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In a hearing room that was almost as quiet as an isolation booth, Charles Van Doren bared his soul yesterday.

His public confession as a dishonest quiz show contestant was one of the most extraordinary events ever to take place in the historic, high-walled house caucus room.

The 33-year-old Columbia University professor's sensitive, mobile face, so familiar to television quiz show fans, was fixed with a woe-begone expression.

"Mr. Charles Van Doren," called out Rep. Owen Harris, chairman of the quiz show investigating subcommittee. "Yes, sir," Van Doren replied in a weak voice.

He listened attentively to

Harris' opening remarks. Then, in cultured, softly-modulated tones, he asked for a glass of water. One swallow launched him on the most painful experience of his life.

But throughout the ordeal of reading his prepared statement, outlining his role in the quiz-rigging deals, Van Doren never lost his poise. Once, during the questioning that followed, tears welled in his eyes.

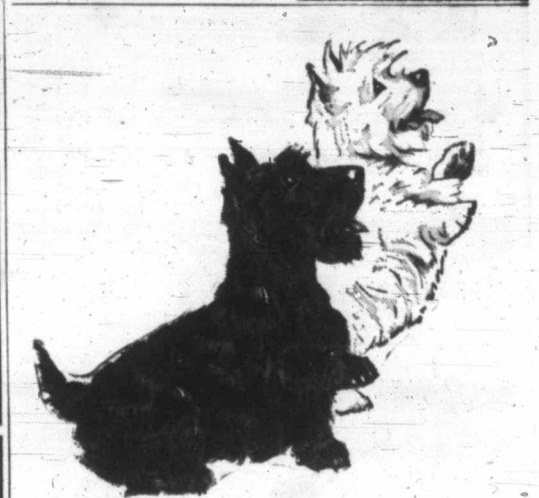

But for the most part he never faltered or stumbled as he poured out his story.

During the comments and questioning that came later, Van Doren's eyes reflected gratitude at any kind words said for him. At other times, he lowered his head in a gesture of shame. He soothed his nerves by lighting one cigarette after another.

Expert's Advice to Public

Take Trash
To the Seller

By R. O. MARRION

Education, not legislation, is the answer to the problem of offensive literature on the bookstands, an authority on the problem said yesterday.

Arnold Edinborough, editor of Saturday Night, and a member of the Ontario committee on salacious literature, spoke to the Canadian Club, and said that in the long run, inculcation of a healthy attitude to literature was the only answer.

DO AS HE DOES

But people should do as he does, he said. "If you see an offensive book, take it to the seller and say, 'Look, do you want your children to read this?'"

"In the end, the reason he offers the stuff is that people buy it or don't protest against it being there."

But Mr. Edinborough, who arrived in time to address the club only by hiring a private plane after finding all regular flights from Vancouver fully booked, found cause for real alarm about obscenity only in one type of literature found on the bookstands.

NOTHING OBSCENE

There was certainly nothing that could be considered obscene in the newspapers, he said.

On the next shelf up were the smarter women's magazines, containing nothing objectionable except perhaps some of the "fiendish" diets and the influence on one's wife

Whole Blocks
Missed
Mallett Says

Whole blocks have been missed by Red Feather residential canvassers, and on these blocks rests the fate of the Community Chest campaign.

Campaign chairman Eric Mallett, depressed but still reasonably convinced that the $325,000 objective can be reached, said yesterday that the total to date was $237,204.13, a far cry from the target of $300,000 by Wednesday night.

"The money is there, I know it is," he stated. "But we've been getting calls from people saying no one in their block has even been approached to donate, and the city must be completely covered if we are to succeed."

'Children
All Over'

A new juvenile detention home including family and juvenile court facilities may be in the offing for Greater Victoria.

City council welfare committee yesterday called for estimates of the cost of such a building behind the city health and welfare centre on Cook.

The committee also voted to send Greater Victoria councils information on how a family and juvenile court would be established and work, and to ask for their support.

Juvenile court in the city is now held at the health and welfare centre, and Ald. M. H. Mooney urged that better facilities be provided "at once."

Children waiting to appear in court, he said, were "all over the place and on the street," and it wasn't proper that children appearing in court, perhaps for the first time, should have to wait in a public place.

Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson, juvenile detention home committee chairman, welcomed this expression of opinion because she had a report from the city engineer of remodelling the detention home on Coldharbour or building a new one.

The engineer said a wing could be added to the present home, providing segregation facilities, for about $15,000, but it would reduce the resale value of the house.

A new home for 12 boys and eight girls, with ample opportunity for expansion and inclusion of a court, could be built for $72,000, he estimated.

"It's going to be $125,000 before we're through," Ald. D. J. Proudfoot predicted. But he added that it was "quite right to go for a new place."

50 Workers
Building
Big Barges

Some 50 shipyard workers at Yarrow's Ltd. are employed in construction of two gravel barges for use in construction of the Tsawwassen ferry terminal.

The $120,000 contract was awarded by Gulf of Georgia Towing Co.

First of the all-steel barges, each 110 feet long with a 38-foot beam and depth of 10 feet 6 inches, is scheduled for launching this Thursday.

Drillers Start Work on Courthouse Site

It wasn't oil or minerals that hard-rock diamond drillers were looking for when they set up operations yesterday on Cathedral Hill. They were actually drilling to find out the depth of rock on this site which will be excavated to make way for Victoria's new $2,000,000 courthouse. Seismic recordings have already been taken at the site and these will be correlated with the drilling records. At work yesterday were, left to right, Jerrold MacMillan and Don Barclay, both of New Westminster. (Colonist photo.)

'Dedicated
To Clean
This Mess'

Fielding of a complete slate of candidates for the civic elections by a newly formed Victoria Civic Voters' Association was announced last night by majority candidate J. Donald Smith, M.L.A.

These are the candidates who will run with the association's support:

Mr. Smith.
Alan Bigelow, lawyer and former city prosecutor.
Bruce Passmore, a city car dealer.

AMBULANCE ASSOCIATION
John D. Carlow, proprietor of an ambulance service and president of the B.C. Golf Association, and the Gorge Vale club.

Victor Williams, a service station operator and president of the Victoria CCF Association.

The new association, Mr. Smith said, was recently formed to sponsor and support candidates offering a prospect of sound city government.

EXPECT THOUSANDS

It has "quite a few members," he said, and "expects to have several thousand by election time."

L. M. Chambers is president, George Hall vice-president, Elma G. Todd secretary and Betty Perullet treasurer.

All the candidates supported by the association, Mr. Smith said, "are dedicated to clean up this mess, and try to bring a little stability to city council policies."

He said the association will have "quite a few meetings" before the elections.

680 October Permits

Victoria Building Up,
Other Areas Down

Construction figures for the first 10 months of the year were up in Victoria and Esquimalt and down slightly in Oak Bay and Saanich compared to figures for the same period in 1958.

In Victoria, it is a case of more money being spent on fewer buildings. A total of 5,874 permits for work worth $7,625,395 were issued this year compared to 6,089 permits for work totalling $6,455,390 in 1958.

For the month of October, 680 permits were issued for construction costing $1,113,136. Last year in October there were 625 permits issued worth $421,211.

In Esquimalt, 15 permits were issued in October worth $104,100, bringing the total for the year to 186 permits worth $1,430,049. In October, 1958, there were 13 permits issued worth $42,600, and the 10-month totals were 197 permits worth $1,302,523.

A total of 371 permits were issued in Oak Bay for the first 10 months of the year costing $2,183,762. Totals for the first 10 months of 1958 were 392 permits for $2,724,844.

In Saanich, figures are down a little from the record showing in 1958. A total of 1,000 permits have been issued for work costing $7,994,429. Figures for 1958 were 1,182 permits worth $9,545,227.

Albertan Fined
After One Month

NANAIMO—John Saiko, the man who waited a month for his trial, was convicted yesterday and fined $15.

Saiko, a visitor to Nanaimo from Wildwood, Alberta, was found guilty of failing to yield right of way to a bus in a city intersection.

Last week, defence counsel Ronald F. MacIsaac protested against any further adjournment. He told the court that it was not until 13 days after the Oct. 2 accident that the charge was laid.

Saiko then appeared in police court three times, only to hear the case adjourned. During his last appearance, he said it was costing him "plenty of money" to prolong his stay in the hub city.

Magistrate Lionel Beever-Fotts yesterday disallowed Mr. MacIsaac's questioning on the subject.

"You have made a big enough to-do already," he told the lawyer. He said it had no bearing on the case.

After a 2½-hour hearing, the magistrate said police could not be criticized for the delay because Mr. Saiko had been hospitalized with injuries received in the accident.

"I appreciate, however, that he has been held up to some extent, and I will take that into consideration," the magistrate said.

The accident demolished Saiko's car, and caused serious damage to the bus. Driver Jack Merlo said he saw Saiko's car "flash" in front of him and was unable to stop.

He agreed under cross-examination that Nanaimo's street system could be confusing to a newcomer. There were no traffic controls at the Victoria Road-Farquhar Street intersection, where the smash-up occurred.

The accused said he did not see the bus, even though he was only travelling at 15 miles an hour and looked both left and right.

Accused Nabbed in Store

DUNCAN—A man police caught in a downtown appliance store Saturday was sentenced to six months' imprisonment when he appeared in police court yesterday.

"Why do you do these things?" Magistrate A. C. Sutton asked Danny L. Johnny, 20, a Cowichan Indian.

"I'm drinking too much, I guess," Johnny answered after pleading guilty to a charge of breaking and entering with intent to commit a theft.

Police were called to the Duncan Radio and Electric Ltd. office after a nearby resident phoned to say someone had broken a pane of glass in the store door. Johnny was caught with several wooden knobs from a radio in his possession.

DUNCAN—Magistrate A. C. Sutton said police showed a great forbearance Saturday while arresting a man who was drunk on a downtown street.

"I expected the police to lay a charge of assault against you," he told Peter P. De Vancy, alias Ronald Finch, Duncan, who pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk in a public place.

The magistrate said he saw the fight from his car. "The police showed a great forbearance in handling this man who was belligerent," he said.

Police said the unemployed logger was "obnoxious." He was fined $20.

Police were called when a watchman at Alberni plywood plant reported hearing a cry for help. The boat was found against the log boom in the area.

Lysne's widow, Norine, and four children, Darcy 12, Danny 11, Myrtle 10, and Legoy 8, live in the Cherry Creek area. ## 'Owe More Than I Have Left'

Van Doren Outspent TV Loot

Bares Soul About 'Rig'

NEW YORK (AP)—Charles Van Doren apparently managed to spend most of his $50,000 in TV winnings in three years while earning $50,000 a year as a TV consultant and working as a professor.

"I owe more than I have left," Van Doren told reporters in Washington Monday after he told a Congressional committee his famous performance on the Twenty-One quiz show was all a fake.

When Van Doren went on the show late in 1956, he was a $4,200-a-year instructor at Columbia University.

PILED UP $129,000

When he left the show, he had piled up $129,000 in winnings for answering questions he now says were mostly from a memorized script.

Because he married shortly after he collected his winnings in 1957, and was able to file a joint tax return, Van Doren was able to keep from $50,000 to $55,000 of the $129,000. The marriage saved him about $20,000 in income taxes.

Later, Van Doren, still doing his teaching job at Columbia, was hired by the National Broadcasting Company as an educational consultant at $50,000 a year.

SUBSTANTIAL RAISE

Still later he was made an assistant professor at Columbia with a substantial raise in pay.

Van Doren hasn't said where the money went but he bought the old family home in Greenwich Village and bought at least two new cars, including an expensive sports car. He also lived in a swank Manhattan apartment for a time.

The fallen idol of the TV quiz shows confessed in shame and anguish Monday that he was deeply involved in rigging the defunct, scandal-tinged Twenty-One quiz show.

RESIGNS

In a matter of hours, Columbia University accepted Van Doren's resignation as an assistant professor of English, effective immediately.

Van Doren also faces possible perjury charges in court, for admitted misstatements to a New York grand jury investigating the rigging of TV shows, and perhaps an end to his $50,000-a-year television career.

For three years the 33-year-old English instructor had concealed, in fear and folly, he said, that the $129,000 he won on Twenty-One were dishonest dollars.

UNDER INDICTMENT

The man who coached him, he told a House of Representatives commerce subcommittee, was Albert Freedman, the producer of the show. Freedman already is under indictment on charges of lying when he denied to a grand jury that the program was fixed.

In New York, the National Broadcasting Company said it was withholding comment on Van Doren's testimony for the present. Freedman could not be located for his reaction.

At one time, Van Doren testified under questioning Freedman told him, "Charlie, I think I ought to have $5,000 of that money."

NOT THAT WAY

Van Doren said he was sorry he ever mentioned that—not that he was trying still to hide something but "I don't think Mr. Freedman meant that the way it sounds."

The matter never was brought up again, he said, and no arrangement was made between him and Freedman.

Van Doren's 90-minute session was every bit as tense and dramatic as any of his 14 appearances in the NBC isolation booth in late 1956 and early 1957.

500 SPECTATORS

Instead of millions of television viewers—the House allows no televising of hearings—perhaps 500 spectators packed elbow to elbow into the House caucus room.

Among them were Van Doren's wife and his father, Mark, the poet.

Also there was Herbert Stempel, a contestant Van Doren dethroned on the quiz program. It was Stempel

Israel Votes Today

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI)—Every taxicab in Israel was chartered to help get voters to the polls in a general election today that is expected to return Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion to power.

Observers agreed there would be no landslide despite the fact that the 72-year-old Ben-Gurion is the hero of Israel and the most powerful man in the country.

DR. ARNOLD TOYNBEE
... humane new order

Historian:

Cut Births—Or Starve

ROME (UPI)—British historian-philosopher Dr. Arnold Toynbee said Monday mankind must accept birth control or else "sooner or later famine will stalk abroad again" in an over-populated world.

His statement before the 10th convention of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization was made with diplomatic immunity. It is a crime to advocate birth control in Roman Catholic Italy.

Toynbee, author of the monumental "Study of History," said civilization has increased the life span of mankind and has cut down the inroads of death by "famine, pestilence and war."

"We have started to impose on nature's heartless play a humane new order of our own," he said. "But when once man has begun to interfere with nature he cannot afford to stop half way."

"We cannot, with impunity, eat down the death rate and at the same time allow the birth rate to go on taking nature's course. We must consciously try to establish an equilibrium or sooner or later, famine will stalk abroad again."

"It would be a mistake to try to hurry the process," he said. "Pressure would be likely to defeat its own purpose."

No Paralysis

Man from Sooke Hit by Polio

Bertrand Ogden, 30, of West Coast Road near Sooke, was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital Sunday suffering from polio.

He was in satisfactory condition last night at hospital, where a spokesman said he was not paralyzed and use of an iron lung was not necessary.

Mr. Ogden was the 14th polio victim reported on Vancouver Island this year.

Two boys died of polio in British Columbia Monday, bringing the death toll from the disease in the province this year to 13.

A five-year-old boy from the Anahim Indian Reservation in the Alexis Creek district of the Cariboo and an 11-year-old Mission City boy were the latest victims.

Neither were identified. The boy from the Anahim reservation received one shot of Salk anti-polio vaccine.

Three other new cases were also reported, bringing the year's total to 79.

Two 37-year-old men, one from Kamloops, the other Quesnel, were both in hospital with bulbar polio. A 32-year-old Bella Coola woman also contracted the disease.

Safecracking Tools in Car

Court Convicts Vice-Principal

EDMONTON (CP)—Michael Kondratyuk, former vice-principal of Parkview School in Morinville, Alta., Monday was sentenced to two years after being convicted in Supreme Court on charges of possession of safecracking tools and explosives.

A third charge of break and entry was dismissed because of lack of evidence. It was laid in connection with the breaking and entering of the Credit and Savings building in Morinville, a town 20 miles north of Edmonton, Aug. 6.

Kondratyuk worked in Edmonton during the summer as a taxi driver. He was vice-principal of the Morinville school until last June 9.

City police said they discovered fuse, nitric acid, glycerine, detonating caps, an eye dropper and a glass cutter in Kondratyuk's car Aug. 7 when they went to summons him for speeding.

What are we employing in this country by way of school teachers?" asked Mr. Justice J. M. Cairns as he sentenced Kondratyuk.

Defence counsel Ed Sulley said his client has received psychiatric treatment since the charges were laid.

Gambling Ring Next Door Police Face Investigation

BOSTON (AP)—A high police official Monday put the East Boston police station under investigation after federal treasury agents crushed what they called a multi-million-dollar gambling ring allegedly operating in the shadow of that station.

Police commissioner Leo J. Sullivan ordered the investigation after the arrest by federal agents of 12 persons and the seizure of gambling equipment, including 17 cars, book-making material and $20,000 in cash.

Europe Suffers

Drought Benefits Canada

WASHINGTON (CP)—Northern Europe has been hit by a drought, opening greater overseas markets for Canadian and United States food products.

Collecting information from its overseas officers, the U.S. agriculture department Monday reported the drought has burned pastures and shrivelled root and forest crops in large parts of a region extending from Britain east into Russia and from the Alps north into Scandinavia.

The damage to grass and the late hay crops in north-western Europe appears to be more severe than in any drought year of this century, the department said. Many of the European pastures will have to be reseeded.

Grain crops generally escaped the damage, but meat and milk production apparently were badly hit.

Civil Defence Asks U.S. For Millions

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Top civil defence officials urged the federal government yesterday to assume a larger role in protecting against the dangers of an atomic war.

Leo A. Hoegh, director of the office of civil defence mobilization, said Congress will be asked for a $1,000,000 monthly appropriation to match state civil defence in future.

Hoegh said a standing operational program is being formulated and should be ready for dispersal to the states by January.

Bells Toll Traffic Fatalities

CALGARY (CP)—Calgary yesterday launched a high-pressure traffic safety campaign which it hopes will include such features as church bells ringing every half-hour on days when there has been a fatal traffic accident.

The campaign started with a drive on jaywalkers. The first person ticketed was City Commissioner E. C. Thomas, caught walking across the middle of a block near City Hall.

To back up its get-tough policy, 10 new constables will be added to its traffic squads.
